EARLY HEARING ON TWO TERM CURB PLEDGED

Proposal Linked to Yank Vote Bill.

BY WILLARD EDWARDS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—A suggestion that a two term restriction for the Presidency be included in service men's voting legislation today evoked from Chairman Eugene Worley [D., Tex.] of the house elections committee an announcement that early hearings will be held on pending resolutions to disqualify any person from serving as President more than two terms.

Worley, whose committee will resume consideration of the vote bill soon after congress reconvenes Jan. 10, refused to take seriously the proposal to attach to it an amendment which would bar President Roosevelt from the ticket in the 1944 election.

"If I thought it would convince the opponents of the bill that I am for permitting the soldiers to vote, no matter what the consideration, I'd go along with such a proposal," he said. "But such an amendment, of course, has no place in the bill. It would be merely another means of bogging the bill down and preventing its passage."

Early Consideration.

The chairman immediately added that he thought the whole subject of limiting the Presidential term merited early consideration.

"The two term proposition should be considered on its merits," he said. "After the soldiers' vote bill is out of the way, I will call open hearings on several pending resolutions dealing with the subject."

The proposal for a two term amendment on the soldier vote bill was advanced by a Republican and a Democratic member of Worley's committee who asked that their names not be used, as the suggestion was a tentative one which was put forward as deserving of open discussion.

To questions about the constitutionality of such a provision, they remarked that the Green-Lucas bill, which was killed in the senate last month, had been clearly unconstitutional in proposing to strip the states of their rights to administer absentee voting but that factor had not stopped its sponsors from urging its passage.

Constitutional Amendments.

Pending resolutions concerning the President's length of service, on which Worley promised early hearings, are all in the form of constitutional amendments, requiring a two-thirds majority in both houses and indorsement by three-fourths of the states within seven years.

While it is admitted that it probably would be impossible to obtain the enactment of a constitutional amendment before the November elections, open hearing and floor discussion of the proposals would have great political significance at a time when President Roosevelt's fourth term ambitions are a subject of national interest, congressmen agreed.

ILLINOIS FIRST TO ACT

BY GEORGE TAGGE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., Dec. 31.—Illinois will be the first state to enact laws to facilitate soldier voting as a result of Gov. Dwight H. Green's action today in calling a special session of the legislature for Jan. 7. Iowa's legislature has been called for the same purpose, but will not meet until Jan. 26.

Election laws will be changed to enable overseas service men to vote in the Illinois primary April 11 as well as in the November general election. Gov. Green had been told it was too late to rearrange the primary election calendar, but this was found not to be so at a meeting which lasted thru half the night.

Following a conference in the executive mansion during the night, details of the program were worked out this morning by Atty. Gen. George F. Barrett's staff, the staff of the legislative reference bureau, under Jerome Finkle, and Werner W. Schroeder, Republican national committeeman for Illinois, who codified Illinois election laws early this year.

The legislature is expected to complete the job within a week after

Revelers Pack Night Spots to Welcome 1944

Tinseled noise makers—human and mechanical—shrieked their greetings to the new year in Chicago last night against a deep-throated diapason of whirring wheels in war plants.

Hilarious crowds, seeking momentary escape from the realities of war, packed the loop, the theaters, the hotels, the night clubs. Most theaters hung out standing room only signs. At midnight, there wasn't even standing room in Randolph street for every one who wanted to stand there.

Other thousands attended watch services in churches and homes.

Colony Club Padlocked.

Earlier in the evening while bartenders at the Colony club, de luxe night spot at 744 Rush street, were polishing glasses and breaking out extra supplies of liquor for a rushing evening's business, Carter H. Harrison, collector of internal revenue, closed the place for nonpayment of cabaret and social security taxes.

Most hotel owners, including Frank Bering, one of the owners of Hotel Sherman, pronounced it the biggest New Year's eve celebration in 40 years. Armistice night in the last war was the only bigger jubilation Bering remembered.

Few women were in evening gowns and there were many new faces in the night spots, some of them having their first taste of champagne. Another feature of the crowd was groups of unescorted young girls, downtown to join in the celebration.

Thousands in Service Centers.

A total of 27,828 soldiers, sailors, and marines visited the three service men's centers at 176 West Washington street, 430 South Michigan avenue and 50 East 49th street, yesterday and last night.

Like other night spots, the Camelia House in the Drake hotel was jammed—and at $15 a head.

Henry Kaiser, shipbuilder, a New Year's eve guest at the Drake, said: "Here's hoping Gen. Eisenhower is right and that from now until the war ends ample effort will be made to give full, productive, and efficient employment after the war ends."

Marshall Field & Co. became the first subscriber to the fourth war loan when a corporate order for 1944 thousand dollars' worth of war bonds, authorized by Hughston M. McBain, president, was handed by William S. Street, vice president, to B. Harrison Neuman of the treasury department in the Panther room at Hotel Sherman at midnight. The presentation was 18 days in advance of the formal opening of the drive.

Third War Time New Year's.

It was the third New Year's eve of the war.

It was the beginning of the year in which Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower has promised victory over Germany.

And it was the first New Year's eve from which Chicago celebraters returned home by subway.

Despite the paper shortage, parts of State and Randolph streets were ankle deep in confetti.

Two hundred extra traffic policemen, including 40 mounted men in the loop, were on duty from 6 p. m. to 3 a. m. to safeguard traffic.

War Plants Keep Going.

War plants in the Chicago area which worked right thru the holiday included the Pullman Standard Car Manufacturing Co., the Carnegie-Illinois Steel Co., the Dodge Chicago plant, the South Chicago works of the Republic Steel corporation, the Western Electric company Hawthorne plant, and the Kankakee ordnance plant near Joliet.

Five hundred members of the century-old First Methodist church attended a midnight communion service led by Dr. Charles R. Goff, pastor, in the Chicago Temple at Clark and Washington streets.

Holy hour services were conducted in the shrine of St. Jude Thaddeus in St. Pius church, 19th street and Ashland avenue.

The first 1944 baby reported in the Chicago area was a son, James John, born to Mrs. Geraldine Jansen, 2715 North Mozart street, who arrived in St. Francis hospital, Evanston, at 12:04 a. m. The baby's father, Lt. Francis Jansen, is serving overseas.

They Saw New Year In, but Not the Old One Out

Ossining, N. Y., Dec. 31 (AP).—As a holiday concession, Sing Sing prison's 1,775 inmates were granted permission today to welcome the new year at midnight by rattling cell doors, singing, and shouting the year they will be eligible for release, in some cases 1980 and 1985.

15 LABOR HEADS SAY HE BALKED FAIR PAY PACT

Blame Long Wage Fight on Him.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31 (AP).—Leaders of the 15 nonoperating railroad unions, representing 1,100,000 workers, after withdrawing their wage demands from arbitration by President Roosevelt, tonight blamed James F. Byrnes, war mobilization director, for their failure to get a settlement satisfactory to them.

"The real trouble all thru this dispute," the 15 union executives said in a statement, "is that since early last June Justice Byrnes has persisted in his effort to thwart the President of the United States in his declared purpose to remove the 'overtime' discrimination against railway employes."

At the same time, the union heads promised their "level best" in helping the army run the nation's rail system, but declared against any retreat in their wage fight.

May Turn to Congress.

They hinted, too, that they might turn to congress, saying "the right of petition still exists."

Refusal of the nonoperating unions to arbitrate raised the prospect that the army may have to run the railroads indefinitely.

They withdrew their case from the President's hands because he proposed to arbitrate jointly a suggested general increase of 4 to 10 cents an hour and the question of bonus pay for work over 40 hours a week. They told him the procedure he outlined would be a "gross injustice."

The unions contend they have accepted the 4 to 10 cents raise, that it is not in dispute any longer, and therefore is not a question for arbitration. Joint consideration, they contend, might mean a trimming of the total sum they believe is due them.

F. D. R. Silent on Rebuff.

Mr. Roosevelt gave no immediate indication of his reaction to the union's turndown or whether he has any new step in mind.

The union statement concluded by saying that the 15 union heads were adjourning until next Thursday when they would "continue their fight for a square deal."

Three operating brotherhoods—the firemen, conductors, and switchmen—also have declined Presidential arbitration. In a statement last night, their leaders accused the administration of bungling.

As the situation now stands, Mr. Roosevelt's efforts to settle personally the railroad controversy has been successful in the case of only two of 20 unions. The brotherhoods of trainmen and of engineers, representing about 200,000 of the 1,450,000 railroad workers, accepted arbitration and were awarded 9 cents an hour increase.

Charge Strike Threats Aid Nazis

See Revolt Delayed

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31 (AP).—A personage high in the councils of the United States and allied nations tonight called the threats of railway and steel strikes a "great tragedy," asserting they provided fuel for the axis propaganda mill and thus may have delayed revolts in Germany and occupied lands this winter—revolts which could spell swift collapse for the Nazis.

The high source, withholding use of his name, told reporters at a conference that German propagandists are telling subject peoples everywhere in Europe that chaos reigns in the United States; that the army has been forced to take over the railroads.

As a result, it was added, the subjugated countries are reported hesitating again to start the resistance which was counted on as a major factor in the overthrow of German domination outside the reich.

This means, it was said, that the war could be extended months longer and that the allies still may have to fight thru the summer at a cost of scores of thousands of casualties before Germany can be brought to her knees.

Smear, Union View

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31 (AP).—Representatives of union labor tonight disputed the statement of an anonymous government spokesman that the threats of railway and steel strikes in this country had given the Germans a propaganda tool that would tend to delay revolt of Europe's subject nations.

An executive of the United Steel Workers' union [CIO], who also chose to remain anonymous, said the government spokesman's statement was a "filthy propaganda story designed to arouse the American people against labor unions, despite their amazing production record."

William F. Donovan, regional CIO United Steel Workers director, denied recent steel stoppages at Republic Steel corporation plants could materially affect allied war calculations.

Three leaders of railroad brotherhoods said that if the railway labor dispute had any effect on the war, labor unions were not to blame.

The office of war information said Nazi broadcasters have not greatly emphasized the strike threats so far as OWI knows.

HERE'S A RIVAL FOR PENICILLIN; IT'S GRAMACIDIN

Berkeley, Cal., Dec. 31 (AP).—The University of California medical school today disclosed that another so-called wonder drug—gramacidin—is competing with penicillin in dramatic cures.

Dr. Henry Brainerd, clinical instructor in medicine, reported today in a university news bulletin that gramacidin, prepared from soil bacteria by a relatively simple process, owes its healing powers to the same general principle as penicillin. He said gramacidin is more than 1,000 times as active in germ killing as the sulfonamide drugs.

Describing the drug as cheaper and easier to produce than penicillin, Dr. Brainerd said gramacidin has been used successfully in cases of impetigo, boils, infected wounds, burns, and various types of ulcers with "variable and sometimes very dramatic results."

Airman Gets a Surprise After Raid; Meets Sister

A U. S. BOMBER BASE IN BRITAIN, Dec. 31 (AP).—When Sgt. John Bleau, 22 years old, a Fortress gunner from Pontiac, Mich., returned from today's raid on France, a uniformed woman was the first to reach his ship and greet him: "Hello, Johnnie, you little devil." It was his sister, 2d Lt. Alberta Bleau, 24, of the army nurses corps.

ARGENTINA ORDERS DISSOLUTION OF ALL POLITICAL PARTIES

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina, Dec. 31 (AP).—The government of Gen. Pedro Ramirez, which seized power last June 4 by a military coup d'etat, today decreed the dissolution of all political parties in Argentina.

The decree said that one motive of the June revolution was to end political corruption and party organizations which "did not and do not harmonize with the reality of public life."

The parties have been suspended since the revolution but committees had continued functioning.

Batter Routed Nazi Forces on 200 Mile Front

LONDON, Jan. 1 [Saturday]—(AP).—Russia's 1st Ukrainian army, racing toward Poland and Rumania, has captured the fortified rail center of Zhitomir and plunged on far beyond thru the rear guards of confused, disorganized Germans who were abandoning tanks, guns, supplies, and dead in their rout.

The forces which captured Zhitomir yesterday sped west and southwest thru a 200 mile breach in the Nazi east wall, far beyond the territory lost to the abortive German counter-offensive in November and December. After capturing 150 communities yesterday, advance soviet units were 35 miles from the prewar Polish border and less than 90 miles from the old Rumanian frontier. More than 2,500 Nazis were reported slain on this front as the Reds advanced at least 15 miles.

"Our tank and motorized troops dealt the enemy considerable blows, breaking thru into his rear to intercept most important communication lines and smash German reserves," said the Moscow war report, recorded here by the soviet radio monitor.

Cut Highway from Vitebsk.

Berlin reports said there were many indications in German military circles that a large scale retreat would be made in Russia to stabilize a defensive line.

In simultaneous offensives keeping the Nazi strength spread thin, Russia's Baltic army smashed thru on both sides of Vitebsk in northern White Russia, capturing 60 towns and cutting the Vitebsk-Orsha highway. More than 800 Germans were killed in five German counter-attacks. Another force pushed at least 11 miles west of Nevel in a renewed drive toward Latvia.

Far to the south the soviet 3d Ukrainian army in the Dnieper bend enlarged its bridgehead across the river west of Zaporozhe. It captured five towns on the road to Nikopol, center of manganese ore production, and killed over 600 counter-attacking Germans.

Win 700 Towns in 3 Days.

The Russian drive in the Zhitomir area now has captured 1,450 populated places in eight days of the offensive, with 700 of the towns taken in the last three days.

The Russians were well beyond the Korosten-Zhitomir rail line, capturing among other important towns a rail station 21 miles southwest of Korosten. In the southern portion of the 200 mile front the Russians captured a town 19 miles east of Samgorod in a 15 mile advance near the Dniester river, Rumania's former boundary.

Another significant capture was that of a town 13 miles west of Beloe Tserkov, a rail city south of Kiev toward which one Russian column was looping back.

German Blows Fail.

Nazi Field Marshal Gen. Fritz von Mannstein struck back with counter-attacks with the remnants of his army of 300,000 in a desperate effort to re-form his lines and restore order, but he could not stop the Russians.

The Germans made no effort to hide the gravity of their plight.

"In view of the great numerical superiority of the soviet forces," said one Nazi radio commentator, "German troops were compelled to restrict their activities. Dangerous situations repeatedly occurred."

Both Berlin and Moscow told of repeated encirclement of German groups and, altho Berlin said the trapped men fought their way free, the Russians slashed thru at will and kept the retreating enemy back on his heels.

The Germans' Friday war report also indicated the Russians were on the offensive again north of Kirovograd, in the Dnieper bend.

Lack of Snow in December Perils Crops

BY GAIL COMPTON.

The end of the holidays to farmers meant mainly the continuation of a prolonged drouth that is endangering fall sown crops, hay lands, and pastures. The month of December, according to the weather bureau, was the fourth driest on record with only .1 of an inch of snow, compared with 6.5 inches normally. Total precipitation for the month amounted to .34 of an inch with 2.07 inches considered normal.

Reports from thruout the state told of fields cracking and drying as the weather continued mild and dry. Fields of wheat and rye seeded this fall are in danger of being heaved from the ground as a result of alternate freezing and thawing. Farmers rely upon a blanket of snow to protect their grains.

Frost Endangers Lawns.

Home owners complained that their lawns were being hurt as frost exposed the grass roots to the weather. One war gardener reported that his one acre field was so dry the clods of earth crumbled at the slightest touch. Such a condition is more nearly normal for July than for December.

At The Tribune farm, near Wheaton, the gardener has started to water the trees to provide the moisture that is lacking. By this time of the year the farm trees usually have enough moisture to keep them until spring. Mulching and fall watering give them a good supply to add to the expected winter snows and rains. This year, however, the fall sprinklings have been used up and the trees were in great need of additional water.

A summation of the weather for 1943 by the bureau discloses that the coldest days of the year were Jan. 19 and 20 with 12 and 13 degrees below zero. In all, zero temperatures were recorded 10 times.

The warmest day came on June 27, when the temperature climbed to 97 degrees. A reading of 90 or higher was reached on 24 days during the year.

Sunshine Above Normal.

January, April, May, July, and August were wetter than usual, while the other months were drier than normally. Outstanding was the wet month of May, when twice the usual amount of precipitation fell.

Sunshine during the year amounted to 62 per cent with 58 per cent normal. February, March, June, and December were outstandingly sunny months.

NO VICTORY IN WAR, NO MERCY FOR FOE: HITLER

Claims Catastrophe in East Averted.

LONDON, Dec. 31 (AP).—Adolf Hitler, in a defiant New Year's message to the German home front facing a threat of allied invasion, today declared "with the fullest confidence that wherever they land, the allies will receive an appropriate welcome."

Warning that "in this war there will be no victors and losers, but merely survivors and annihilated," he said capitulation cost the Germans victory in World War I, and added:

"This time we shall not fall victims to siren songs such as [President] Wilson sang, for this time our enemies announced their war aims prematurely and with brutal frankness."

Calls Struggle Merciless.

"We realize that this is a merciless struggle in which the question is 'to be, or not to be,' and therefore must and unfortunately will be countered by us in the same merciless manner," said his message broadcast from Berlin.

As the Russians were driving toward pre-war Poland's borders, Hitler said "a Napoleonic catastrophe seemed imminent for the German front, yet we were able to master the situation."

For the continent's ramparts he promised fortifications which will "surprise the enemy." He said U-boat warfare had slackened due to "a single invention by our enemies" and said he would solve this. He did not describe the invention.

To the home front he promised "retaliation" for allied bombings. He blamed setbacks on "Italian treason" and "the breach of faith of French admirals." Hitler had a propaganda message for the British—that Britain is at the mercy of her allies, Russia and America. He also spoke with scorn of the allied demand for "unconditional surrender."

Last year 1943 "brought us our heaviest reverses," Hitler admitted, but he also contended: "After more than four years of war the German reich has not lost one square kilometer of its soil."

Sees Barbarism Ensuing.

"My compatriots, we know the existence of our Germany alone guarantees the existence of Europe," he declared. "Germany's collapse would mean the end of the continent with its 2,500 years of cultural tradition and its replacement by barbarism which only those can imagine who know the bolshevik east."

As recorded by government monitors, Hitler said:

"German people, National Socialist men and women party members: More than four years have gone by since the day when the international war mongers, who had been busy for a long time spiritually and materially preparing war against Germany, were at last able to declare war.

Speaks of "Clever Men."

"Britain, in particular, at that moment cherished the illusion that she would be able to continue successfully her 300 year old practice of making war in Europe with little effort of her own. But these clever men of the traditional policy of British imperialism had overlooked some important facts. They had forgotten that the situation had changed completely insofar as not Britain but bolshevism would benefit from the reestablishment of the 'theoretical balance' of power as a result of this war. . . .

"They had forgotten that therefore the so-called 'balance of European powers' no longer exists and that the need to preserve Europe in the face of the bolshevik menace depends exclusively on the existence of a dominating continental power.

Taunts British Loss of Power.

"In the fight of the great nations, Great Britain herself can no longer play an individual decisive role as a great power. In the alliance of Great Britain with bolshevism or with the United States, the latter can do without Great Britain, but without their assistance Great Britain is helpless and unable to continue her former traditional policy.

"The war, which Great Britain began in the belief that she was carrying out her old traditional policy of maintaining the balance of power in Europe was supported and prepared by the propaganda of international Jewry but is today no longer being waged for the benefit of British interests but for the victory of the Jewish world dictatorship. . . .

Sees Britain Weakened.

"However the war may end, Great Britain's power must in any case be weaker at its end than at the beginning. . . .

"The international Jew does not encourage this fight so that Great Britain shall remain as a world power or even retain her position, but encourages it so that Europe, including Great Britain, shall be bolshevized. The treaty which Britain has made with the devil will end as such a sale of souls have always ended so far: It will not be Great Britain who will tame the bolshevik devil, but bolshevik poison will eat up Britain more and more and will lead her to her ultimate disintegration.

Warns of Bolshevism.

"We know, my fellow countrymen, that so far as Germany is concerned, her existence alone guarantees that of Europe. . . .

"I have frequently said that this fight is not concerned with the victors and vanquished, as was the case in earlier wars. But I consider it my duty to my conscience to state this once again in this proclamation for the New Year.

"I am not impressed in this case by the wishes of official British policy, which is filled with hatred. If leading British politicians demand that the bulk of the German people should be eliminated, that, as in the case of Poland, children should be taken from our people to be educated in Russia—that is, exterminated—that one or two dozen millions of German workers should be transported to Siberia, if British bishops pray that bolshevism should be entrusted with punishing the German people during the next decades, if British papers say that it is hoped that this time the people would no longer be affected by feelings of humanity and that justice would be left to take its course and Germany, attacked by Britain and France themselves, should be torn up and castigated in such a way that she would not be able to rise again for centuries—if these statements are made, they are certainly meant truthfully, but this fact is not decisive in itself.

"It is quite evident to us that this fight, therefore, disregards all earlier scruples arising from purely human motives, for in the end there will be no victors or vanquished, but only survivors and annihilated.

Sees "Horrible Misfortune."

". . . It shows us that this is a struggle without mercy, a struggle for existence that unfortunately we must and will carry on just as unmercifully. For, however great the terror may be today, it cannot be compared with the horrible misfortune that would afflict our nation and the whole of Europe if this coalition of criminals should ever be victorious. . . .

"Wherever British rule exists today hunger and destitution are constant companions of everyday life. While its wire pullers, with insolent and impudent mendacity, are talking of measures for the healing of the post-war world, they cannot deny that millions of people are dying miserably of hunger and malnutrition in the vast territories that they have ruled for centuries.

"Scarcely have they occupied southern Italy than they are forced to ban certain areas to their own troops—not because of typhus but because the gradual starvation of these people leads to sights that even the most hard-boiled allied soldier cannot be constantly presented with.

"Furthermore, the plutocratic bolshevik world has not yet succeeded in securing work and bread for its millions in such countries as America, where there are 12 people to every square kilometer.

"Bolshevism, in the course of its dictatorship, has not succeeded in saving 30,000,000 people from starvation, altho even in the European part of Russia there is 19 times as much soil for every man as there is in Germany. . . . In the event of a bolshevik plutocratic victory, densely populated Europe would not only witness a social collapse more disastrous than ever since the migration of peoples, but would also be subjected to an economic catastrophe of unimaginable scope. Only those who are led by hatred and unbelievable malice can fail to realize that Britain herself would also fall victim to such a world crisis."

Cites Danger to Europe.

"The danger to Europe is enormous. Nor can this be mitigated by the fact that British and United States quarters are declaring this war will be followed by a third World war, a war between plutocracies, or between them and bolshevism.

"It is a matter of indifference to humanity whether it is destroyed by a Jewish-capitalist or a Jewish-bolshevik dictatorship, whether it is enslaved under the Star Spangled Banner, the union jack, or the soviet flag.

"However difficult this fight, it bears no relationship to the fate that would be ours if we were defeated.

"Every war has come to an end and this war will not last forever.

Quotes Scripture.

"Today this hatred is not opposed by a weakly bourgeois Germany, but by a national socialist state. This brutal attack is being answered by the national German community with fanatical hatred of a race that knows that it is fighting for its existence and that, in this case, believes in the old biblical saying: 'An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth!'

"There can be no doubt that the Jewish aim of destroying Europe will lead to the sure extermination of Jewry all over Europe, and that the attempt of Britain and the United States to destroy Europe and Germany with bolshevism and to discipline the German nation thru the Moscow garrotters—to let it be exterminated—is achieving only the opposite—bolshevization for the Anglo-Saxon world.

Speaks of Reverses.

"The year 1943 has brought us our heaviest reverses.

"Our oldest ally fell away, as a result of a long and carefully planned betrayal by a clique that identified itself with the greater capitalist west. Even since before the war the underground activities of this clique of financiers and politicians gathered round the king [Victor Emmanuel] were observed.

"Their sabotage not only succeeded in stopping supplies to Africa and to Italy . . . but aggravated or confused the situation in the Balkans. Banditry was the product of these forces. The complete collapse and retirement of Italian formations in the east is due to this crisis.

Lashes at Italy's King.

"By treachery against the Duce and a conspiracy with the enemy, the king and his clique wanted to bring about the ruin of fascism in Italy and of the national socialist reich.

"The shameful treachery against the Duce, to whom Italy owes everything, confronted the reich with most difficult problems. The consequences influenced the whole war. German leadership was forced to examine ruthlessly what was essential and to make decisions.

"These decisions appeared hard to understand to the soldier who had to retreat for hundreds of kilometers. Every German may be convinced that nothing has happened and nothing will happen that is not implicitly necessary. The tasks are: to win the war in any case.

"The building of gigantic front lines, the taking over of huge r. networks made it necessary to limit our forces on other fronts. The better distribution of our forces is a full success.

Not Like Kingdom of Italy.

"If they try by journeys, conferences, and appointments of commanders in chief and other maneuvers to burden Germany, the German people, and leaders by a war of nerves, they do not merely misjudge the German nation, but above all mistake the German leaders for those of the former kingdom of Italy.

"It is no news that the English intend to carry out a landing in the west or in the Balkans or in Norway, Holland, Portugal, or anywhere else. They have been once before in most of these places. They intend to execute these landings with all the means at their disposal. Nor is it a new feature that they should appoint special commanders. They clearly intended from the start to plan our defeat.

"I can assure the German people we took these intentions into account from the start and prepared ourselves not only from the point of view of man power and material resources but by organizing defense of points that seem to us decisive. This was done on a scale that will probably surprise our enemies more than their landing would surprise us. The British who landed at Dieppe did not make any real acquaintance with the German defense. The heroism of our soldiers of the army, the navy, the Luftwaffe, and the Waffen SS is unique in history! Today it is the homeland that may be shown to the front as an example of equal heroism and spirit of sacrifice.

"The air war on Germany affects us deeply. We will rebuild our towns so that they are more beautiful than ever before.

"In a few years the national socialist state will remove all traces of this war. New glory will rise from the ruins of Berlin and Hamburg, Munich and Cologne, Kassel and other towns that have been damaged.

"What is particularly painful to me is only the loss of life of women and children and the loss of so many possessions to those who inherited them from their forefathers or who bought them out of their savings.

"The hour of retribution will come. There are two sides to air warfare. Success in this war will transform our German towns from rubble heaps into prosperous communities. . . . If millions no longer possess anything to lose, they can only gain.

"The national socialist leadership is resolved to wage this struggle with utmost fanaticism and disregard of consequences. It will differ from the weak and cowardly German leadership during the last World war.

"The party, whose members pay more than their share in blood on the fighting front is at home the mainstay of work, in leadership of our fellow-citizens. The German farmer and especially the German farmer's wife contribute by providing food. They know that collapse of the reich would mean the end of the German farmer.

Calls Upon Workers.

"They are supplemented by the toil of millions of our workers, who, provide arms and ammunition. In contrast to the World war, when in 1918 we possessed scarcely a dozen tanks, the production of our own tanks has risen continuously in quality and quantity, as has that of anti-tank defenses. Thanks to our glorious ally in East Asia and the nations fighting at our side in Europe, we constitute a numerical factor that is not smaller than that of our enemies. . . . It is the tremendous rhythm of the national socialist people's state that makes the waging of this struggle possible.

"This Socialist people's state is a target of hatred of the bolshevik plutocratic world conspirators and their Jewish wire-pullers. But the same state will cause the downfall of this coalition.

1944 to Make Demands.

"The year 1944 will make heavy demands on all Germans. This vast war will approach a crisis this year. We have every confidence that we will survive.

"Our one prayer to our Maker will not be that He gives us victory but that he weighs us justly. . . . He knows our fight.

"It is none other than to safeguard the existence of our nation, which He created. Our readiness for sacrifice has not remained hidden from Him. . . . His justice will continue to test us until He is ready to pass judgment.

"It is our duty to see that we do not weigh too lightly in His eyes, but experience the gracious judgment of victory, which means life."

Other Nazi party leaders issued New Year messages. Minister Paul Joseph Goebbels said: "Nobody who has ever lived thru 1943 will ever forget it." Goebbels declared an allied invasion would "meet a German army which has tremendous striking power." Marshal Hermann Goering said, the German people would "brave all future dangers and weather all storms."

FIND NAZI FEARS LOSING HIS EARS TO THE GOUMIERS

BY WILLIAM STRAND.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

WITH FRENCH TROOPS OF THE 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, Dec. 28 [Delayed]. — Members of the self-styled master race fear death just as much as any one else and will fight just as hard to stay alive when they believe that being taken prisoner means they will be tortured. That is the finding of French Moroccan troops, including the famed Goumiers, fighting in the wind swept hills here.

Grinning French officers said that German prisoners brought in by the swarthy African fighters were too terrified for interrogation until given time to realize that they were still alive and probably would not be tortured at all. They told their captors that their Nazi officers warned them to fight until death because if taken alive the Goumiers would cut off their ears.

Nazis Resist Stubbornly.

This, said the officers, apparently accounts for the stubborn German resistance in the frigid hills above this beautiful Italian valley. Yesterday the French drove into German positions and won a foothold on the topmost heights after bitter hand to hand fighting. Dividing themselves into several columns the Moroccans and Goumiers plunged up the mountainous heights in the face of fierce German fire.

"They took 57 prisoners—alive," said a French officer. His shrug indicated this was a surprisingly large number.

"How many were killed?" he was asked.

"Haven't counted, but it was a very successful day," he replied in native French.

Today these special troops, experienced fighters and famed as wily, deadly mountain soldiers, were mopping up the opposite slopes, while sounds of rifles and machine guns were clearly audible from this forward command post.

Knock Out Nazi Position.

At one point the Germans held two farm houses not far distant, whence they poured a lethal criss-cross of machine gun fire. The Goumiers, big, handsomely built fellows, in long robes, only a few bothering to wear helmets, crawled around the houses on their bellies, according to a courier who arrived at the forward position about the time the chatter of the enemy guns ceased abruptly.

A listening French officer held up one finger, smiled broadly, and said, "Ah-h." The courier, arriving a few moments later, announced that resistance at that point was ended and that there were no prisoners.

At another place a small cluster of Nazis was holding out in a pill box fortification. Within a half hour word was carried back that this place also was overcome. The next development was the start of German mortar fire all along the ridge. The only reaction of the French chieftains was to emerge from their headquarters post and watch shells bursting a few hundred yards away. The Goumiers and other colonial troops stood or sat around fires gnawing at oranges and apples and American rations, hardly deigning to notice the disturbance.

Action in Italy

1944 TO BE YEAR OF LIBERATION, GIRAUD ASSERTS

ALGIERS, Dec. 31 (AP).—The year 1944 will be the "year of liberation," Gen. Henri Giraud, French commander in chief, told his land, sea, and air forces today in a New Year's greeting echoing Gen. Eisenhower's prediction of European victory.

"1943 was a year of fighting and preparation," he said. "North Africa and Corsica were liberated. Some of you fight victoriously on all fronts against the common enemy, others guard the posts of our empire or pursue their training; our rearmament develops every day.

"1944 will be the year of liberation. Beside our gallant allies you will take part in the liberation of the motherland."

SEABORNE FORCE STRIKES BEHIND NAZIS IN ITALY

ALLIED HDQ., Algiers, Dec. 31 (AP).—Allied troops, attacking at the western extremity of the Italian battle line for the first time in over a month, jumped the estuary of the Garigliano river yesterday to strike behind German lines in the Minturno area, headquarters announced today.

[The swoop was "a most successful attack," and was carried out by strong British raiding forces early Thursday morning, said a British correspondent with the 5th army. The London radio said one section of the force occupied the village of Ponte Fiume while another section wiped out machine gun posts and cut its way thru barbed wire to advance on German headquarters. The raiding force, it said, "killed or took prisoners all the Germans they met and then withdrew." It added: "It was daylight when our troops returned to their lines. They made their prisoners cross the Garigliano in front of them."]

Claim Raiders Dislodged.

A broadcast German war bulletin said a battalion of seaborne troops landed behind Nazi outposts southeast of Minturno, but was dislodged by a counter-attack. A later news broadcast said the "invasion forces" were driven back across the Garigliano river after coastal defenses sank five of eight landing craft.

A dispatch from the front yesterday described bitter fighting thru the rubble strewn streets of San Vittore, which American infantry entered the previous day after an artillery barrage virtually had leveled the village.

[The Bari radio, controled by the Italian government of Marshal Badoglio, reported that American troops had captured San Vittore.]

Last Fortified Village.

San Vittore, perched on a slope of Mount Samucro, is the last fortified village between Lt. Gen. Mark W. Clark's men and the big road junction of Cassino, 70 miles from Rome.

Elsewhere on the 5th army front action was confined to patrol activity except for German shelling of Mignano.

On the 8th army front the Canadian 1st division plunged another mile northward from Ortona, putting their lines at about two miles from the city and establishing advanced positions nine miles from the vital port of Pescara.

Planes Pound Enemy.

Farther inland in the Montagna della Maiella range of mountains, which tower to heights of 8,000 feet and extend to a depth of 15 miles, British troops made raids in deep snow.

Stepping up the air offensive in clear, cold weather, allied fighters, fighter bombers, and medium bombers of the tactical air force flew more than 500 sorties as they smashed German fortified positions along the 8th army front and pounded enemy communications.

SARGENT'S DRUG STORE, Inc., today, is one of America's oldest business institutions. For 92 consecutive years, through four major wars, many epidemics and critical emergencies, Sargent's has been a leader in a highly technical, rigorously specialized field—that of compounding prescriptions exclusively.

Since 1852, the year of this institution's founding, Sargent's has followed the first command of a "drug store," that of purveying drugs exclusively. As research and science have advanced, so has Sargent's and that is why your physician's orders are compounded here with surpassing care—to the finest limits of precision.

It stands to reason that if a prescription is to work accurately it must be filled accurately . . . and there you have a clear picture of the work specialists must do—physician and pharmacist must pool their ingenuity to serve you to the utmost.

War creates many emergencies, many difficulties. But Sargent's, with a background of 92 years of experience in being prepared, has many times over earned the significant phrase, "Sargent's have it!"

The pharmacists who wait on you at Sargent's are registered in accordance with state and national laws. They are as highly skilled as strict schooling, constant study and adherence to exacting requirements can make them.

Your physician's trust is a sacred challenge to all of us here at Sargent's, and we shall not fail. For 92 years and as always,

"A Sargent prescription is a matter of honor."

GERMAN PLANTS AT PARIS RAIDED BY U. S. BOMBERS

LONDON, Jan. 1 [Saturday]—(AP).—A great fleet of American heavy bombers swept over France yesterday, bombing Nazi industrial targets in Paris and an enemy air base at Chateau Bernard used by German planes collaborating with U-boat attacks against allied shipping, it was announced early today.

Two vital ball bearing plants were struck in the Paris attack, while some of the heavy bombers penetrated to west central France to reach Chateau Bernard.

The day's air operations sent more than 1,000 allied planes over the continent, bringing the total for a 48 hour period to 3,500. American heavy bombers struck enemy air bases in southern France and attacks also were made along the French invasion coast.

Bag Six Nazis; Lose One.

An announcement said United States marauders in the last five raids of 1943 against this portion of France closest to England did not lose one plane, altho the concentration against the Pas de Calais area alone totaled 1,100 sorties [individual plane flights].

The American heavy bombers striking at the Paris plants were escorted by American and allied fighters which shot down six German fighters against a loss of one.

One Fortress formation was jumped by from 50 to 75 Nazi fighters and fought a running battle from the Brest peninsula to the middle of the English channel.

Returning crewmen reported bullseye bomb hits on both the Paris targets and the air fields.

200 Killed, French Report.

Chateau Bernard, in west central France, is about two miles from Cognac on the Charente river and 45 miles inland from Rochefort, at the mouth of the river.

The Paris attack, the first on the French metropolis since the bombing of the Caudron-Renault and Hispano-Suiza airplane works and the Cam ball bearing works on Sept. 15, was designed to cripple the enemy's ball bearing supply, which is essential to his war effort.

The Paris radio announced the fringe of the French metropolis had been hit heavily. The broadcast said 200 persons had been killed and more than 2,000 injured in the raid on the outskirts of the city.

Plane Factories Raided.

The former French capital, now the headquarters for German occupation authorities and the center of many enemy factories, had been hammered in its industrial suburbs three times in September and once in April by the Americans.

Paris was one of 36 French cities warned of impending allied air raids by a British broadcast Nov. 17.

It was indicated the Americans and British might have sent up as many planes as they did Thursday, when more than 2,000 bombers and fighters blasted a variety of targets ranging from the chemical and industrial center of Mannheim-Ludwigshafen deep in southwestern Germany to northern France.

A record breaking force of approximately 1,500 United States bombers and fighters were used against Mannheim-Ludwigshafen.

During the month ending yesterday American bombers conducted nine major operations and the R. A. F. six huge raids, four of which were against Berlin in such strength as to virtually destroy that city as the working capital of the Reich.

Highland Park Navigator Lost in Raid on Germany

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Anderson of 907 Berkeley road, Highland Park, yesterday were notified by the war department that their son, 2d Lt. Everett S. Anderson, 20 years old, a navigator on a bomber stationed in England, has been missing in action since a raid over Germany Dec. 20. Anderson, a graduate of Highland Park High school, entered the army air forces in September, 1942, and was sent overseas two months ago. His brother, John F. Jr., is in the merchant marine.

AMG IN ITALY ORDERS PURGE OF FASCISTS

NAPLES, Italy, Dec. 31 (AP).—The allied military government [AMG] started the new year with an order issued today for a sweeping purge of Fascist officials from all government posts and public offices in the three provinces of Naples, Benevento and Avellino.

It was the first mass removal order that has been issued. Heretofore, AMG officials explained, they have been eliminating known Fascists on an individual basis in order to avoid a complete dislocation of the Italian administrative machinery behind the 5th army lines.

More than 1,000 persons of undoubted Fascist character were removed in that way, the record showed.

Key Officials Now on Jobs.

"Sufficient key officials are in place now," the announcement said, "so that the wholesale order will not result in the impairment of any vital parts of the government work."

Automatic dismissal was ordered for all persons who had been members of the superfascist organization known as "Squadristi," "March on Rome," "Gerarchi" and "Sciarpia Littorio."

Persons whose record indicated that they had been "guilty of attacks against personal liberties" also were ordered removed.

Any holder of German or Japanese decorations when it was known that these decorations had been given because of "assistance in furthering the Fascist cause" came within the scope of the ouster order.

Cancel Promotions.

The order also notified prefects that promotions in office when granted because of Fascist activity should be canceled. Vice versa, the cases of Italians who, under the Fascists, had been dismissed from government posts or had been prevented from receiving deserved promotions because of their political views should be reëxamined and reports forwarded to the allied civil affairs officers.

More than a month ago AMG released a list of the names of some 500 public officials and army and navy officers who had been dismissed for Fascist activities. Another list will be made public shortly, it was stated.

EDITOR SLUGGED BY POLICE CHIEF SUES FOR $3,500

Beckley, W. Va., Dec. 31 (AP).—A $3,500 damage suit was filed in Circuit court today against Police Chief Tommy Roberts and his bonding company by Editor Eugene Scott of the Beckley Post-Herald, who said the chief assaulted him yesterday while Scott was at the city hall.

Scott asserted he was knocked to the floor and then was struck again. He said he suffered a bad cut on the head and his glasses were broken.

The newspaper man said he called at Roberts' office by appointment to discuss an editorial which appeared in the morning paper. When Scott said that he would continue to make any criticism in the newspaper he desired Roberts grabbed him and struck him with his fist, the editor said.

NEW TIRE QUOTA FOR JANUARY IS INCREASED 3,692

Chicagoans will get 3,692 more new tires for passenger cars in January than during December, the office of price administration announced yesterday when it set this month's quotas for tires, tubes, stoves, and bicycles.

Paul A. H. Shults, area director, said 12,073 new passenger car tires will be available, compared with 8,391 in December, and 16,179 grade 3, or used, tires will be rationed, compared with 16,889 last month. There will be 3,441 truck tires, compared with 3,809 in December, a reduction of 368. Passenger car users will be able to get 2,883 tubes, compared with 9,418 last month, and truck users will have 2,883, compared with 3,226.

The January quota of coal, wood, oil and gas heating stoves was cut to 1,666 from the 2,980 available in December, and the number of cooking stoves was more than halved, from 1,439 to 705 this month.

Thousands of pairs of women's shoes selling at $3 or less may be sold ration free from Jan. 17 to Jan. 29, inclusive, the OPA told retailers. Dealers were authorized to dispose of 15 per cent of such kinds listed in their September, 1943, reports to the OPA. Mail order houses, wholesalers, and manufacturers may sell 15 per cent of their September inventories at any time.

Rubber heels purchased at retail for application by customers were put under price ceilings by the OPA. The better kind are to sell at 15 cents a pair, ordinary ones at 10 cents.

JUGO-SLAV KING CHARGES TITO'S ARMY A FAILURE

LONDON, Dec. 31 (AP).—A deprecating picture of the whole Jugo-Slav guerrilla campaign of Marshal Josip [Tito] Broz was painted in a statement by the government in exile of King Peter II. today.

The royal government, hostile toward Tito, said at Cairo that Tito's army had been driven back from all major towns and at some places broken into disintegrating groups.

"Owing to faulty operational tactics, the Partisans have lost all positions which would have enabled them to retain their military importance," it was declared.

Viewed as Plea for Aid.

The statement was viewed here as an indirect plea for stronger support of King Peter's government.

Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden told the house of commons recently that the allies were giving the bulk of their aid in the Balkans to Tito because his forces were furnishing most of the resistance to the Nazis. Opposing forces of Jugo-Slavs have fought each other frequently, it has been reported.

Tito's supporters claim he has liberated more than one-third of the country from German rule and that he has an army of 250,000 serving under him.

The statement by the royal government, however, said 14,000 guerrillas are cut off in the Dinaric Alps and added that "they are deprived of all possible support from the outside."

Tito Reports Nazis Stronger.

"The only considerable group of Partisans left is holding out in the vicinity of Livno and Duvno [Bosnia] until the Germans bring up reënforcements," the statement said.

Reports from Tito's own headquarters have told of greatly increased Nazi strength being brought to bear on the Partisans and today's bulletin broadcast by the Free Jugo-Slav radio announced:

"In Dalmatia the Germans have drawn up fresh forces and special landing troops in an attempt to seize the islands in the Adriatic which are in the hands of the Jugo-Slav army of liberation."

The bulletin also said that "bitter fighting still is continuing in eastern Bosnia where the enemy is seeking with all his strength to break our resistance."

Fighting in the Livno and Duvno sectors has slackened and in other regions the initiative is in the hands of the Partisans, Tito's bulletin said.

Special Gasoline Rations for Recuperating Veterans

Service men may obtain their coupons at local rationing boards by submitting their furlough papers and a medical certificate stating that automobile transportation will contribute to their recuperation.

SENATOR ASKS SPEEDIER NEWS ON CASUALTIES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31 (AP).—Sen. Joseph C. O'Mahoney [D., Wyo.] today submitted to the war department a plan for speeding official reports of combat casualties to the fallen men's families.

O'Mahoney proposed in a letter to Secretary of War Henry Stimson that a reported "surplus" of newly appointed and trained officers, particularly in the lower grades, be assigned to divisions in the field "with the sole duty of gathering and transmitting in the speediest possible manner the information which the families of the soldiers so anxiously desire to receive."

His understanding that the army has an officer surplus came, O'Mahoney's letter said, "from numerous statements which have been made to the committees of the congress."

MARINES SMASH JAP BLOWS, GAIN ON NEW BRITAIN

Push Beyond Air Base at Cape Gloucester.

ADVANCED ALLIED HDQ., New Guinea, Jan. 1 [Saturday]—(AP).—Gen. MacArthur in his New Year's day war bulletin today said all Japanese counter-attacks against newly-won marine holdings at Cape Gloucester, New Britain, have been beaten off.

Marines on the east flank, opposing enemy forces in the Borgen bay area, held their line while the elements which won the airdrome on Thursday cleared out enemy remnants and advanced.

[Among the American marines fighting in the air field area are Sergeants Chandler Axtell, Thornton, Ill., and Harold Carlson, Rock Island, Ill., and Pvt. Frank J. Denter, Milwaukee, Wis., according to another dispatch.]

Supporting attack planes dealt heavy blows against the Nipponese on both sides of the Cape Gloucester position.

Planes Lead Aussie Drive.

Westward across narrow Vitiaz strait on New Guinea's Huon peninsula, Australians driving along the jungle coast some 30 miles north of Finschhafen gained as planes softened the enemy resistance ahead of them.

"Our ground troops are consolidating their positions," today's official bulletin said concerning Cape Gloucester. "Abortive enemy attacks on our original beachheads [won Sunday] were heavily repulsed."

In the counter-attacks by the Japanese against the Borgen bay flank on the east side of Cape Gloucester the enemy lost more than 200 men, a spokesman said. He added that "our losses were light." [Presumably these 200 dead were added to the more than 700 Japs slain in the showdown battle.]

At the initial New Britain invasion sector of Arawe, on the southwest coast, United States 6th army patrols skirmished with the enemy. Two Jap planes raided that area.

Some 80 miles east of Arawe American planes on night patrol bombed the Nipponese airdrome at Gasmata.

On New Ireland the Kavieng airdrome was bombed and fires were started. Kavieng, 160 miles northwest of Rabaul, is a staging point on the Jap South Pacific lifeline from Truk to Rabaul.

See New Jap Withdrawal.

In the northern Solomons, where American troops are expanding their beachhead won Nov. 1 at Empress Augusta bay on the west-central coast of Bougainville, a new Japanese withdrawal on the upper end was indicated.

Adm. William F. Halsey's headquarters said allied patrols on Dec. 29 ventured well beyond their main lines in the Torokina area without encountering any opposition.

Allied planes attacked three heavily laden barges near the southern end of the island. Two were sunk. The third was beached.

14 SUBS SUNK: TOKIO.

The Japanese high command yesterday claimed 14 allied submarines had been sunk "in waters near Japan proper and other operational areas" from October thru Dec. 30 by Japanese warships and army and navy planes. The broadcast Tokio claim was not confirmed by any allied source.

Also unconfirmed was a Berlin broadcast of Japanese claims that four warships, 20 large and medium transports, numerous landing craft, and more than 200 allied planes had been destroyed off Cape Gloucester, New Britain, this week.

"Extraordinary scouting and artillery activities indicate that a large scale attack of the Americans is impending" on Bougainville Island, the broadcast added.

A second Nazi broadcast said Tokio newspapers were warning the Japanese that the United States was massing a huge air and sea invasion force in Alaskan and Aleutian bases and that there were "approximately 30 United States air bases" in China that might be used in preparing for air attacks on Japan proper.

THE QUESTION.

Have you ever been in the dog house, and why?

WHERE ASKED?

The Field building, West Adams street.

THE ANSWERS.

George McAvoy, cashier, 57 North Menard avenue—Just before Christmas I made a bad blunder. I wanted my wife to have a perfect Christmas, so I gave her a blank check and told her to buy the thing she wanted most and that would be my gift to her. She thought I was trying to get off easy and she didn't like the sentiment.

George Rhitchell, investment advisor, 1034 Sheridan road—As far as I'm concerned, my grandchildren never do anything they're not supposed to do; but my wife thinks differently. It took her a long time to forgive me when I disapproved of some discipline she was administering. The grandchildren heard me, too.

J. F. Thomann, passenger agent, 852 Ridge avenue, Evanston—About a year ago I answered a question for this column. It was a rather personal statement about a good friend. I've been in the dog house ever since. I better not say too much now, because she almost has forgotten about my previous offense.

Joseph F. Lesak, insurance salesman, 2502 Cuyler avenue, Berwyn—Right after Christmas my wife asked me to exchange a few of her gifts for another size or color. They've been at the office ever since and I never manage to get around to it. I'm in the dog house right now on account of that, but I still prefer it to waiting in line.

H. J. Harker, clothing buyer, 1442 Sedgwick street—It never pleases my wife when I surprise her with a gift of something to wear. She has asked me not to buy such things because I always get the wrong size or color and always pay too much. She was peeved when I bought her something that she couldn't wear or exchange.

Joseph E. Rothstein, insurance man, 911 North Francisco avenue—I'm in the dog house right now for an offense that's landed me there periodically during the 17 years of our marriage. My wife loves to play cards and I'd rather sleep. Naturally it spoils the fun for all if I leave the party. It takes a long time for her to forget it.

F. D. R. AND ALLIED CAUSE APPROVED BY SHAH OF IRAN

TEHERAN, Iran, Dec. 31 (AP).—The young shah of Iran [Persia], Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, told the Associated Press at the royal palace today that "I would like to see my army cooperating much more with the allies," and described the recent Teheran declaration concerning Iran as the "first application of the principles of the Atlantic charter."

Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, shah of Iran.

[The Teheran declaration by President Roosevelt, Churchill, and Stalin guaranteed the independence of Iran after the war and promised to give the country economic assistance.]

The 24-year-old shah, who rules a land larger than Germany, France, and Spain combined, praised President Roosevelt as "that great character," and added that he was "especially touched by his kind letter inviting me to visit the United States." He said he would accept at the first opportunity.

No Declaration on Italy.

"We never doubted the friendly attitude of our allies," he continued. "Since Iran declared war on Germany the presence of allied troops in our country was only natural. We didn't declare war on Italy because I didn't want to get the cheap effect of declaring war on a state at the moment of its collapse."

The young ruler was in his study, a small room overlooking the magnificent gardens of the marble palace. The shah was educated in Switzerland and speaks English fluently.

Leaning back and choosing each word carefully, he said:

"We were very happy to receive President Roosevelt, Premier Stalin, and Prime Minister Churchill. Teheran was privileged. I am proud of our efforts and our contributions to the common cause, which are recognized as having influenced positively the course of the war in favor of the United Nations.

Cites Democracies' Aims.

"It was a great opportunity for the great democracies to show the world by the attitude adopted in our case that all sacrifices and losses of blood are made for the sole aim of suppressing and utterly defeating the world of tyranny, and so assuring the freedom and independence of all nations.

"During the conference I had the opportunity to see President Roosevelt—that great character of whom the United States can be proud—and I was impressed by his firm desire to help my country now and after the war."

The shah said he had established four principles to lead his country into an abundant life—improved housing, sufficient food for everybody, free and obligatory public education for all classes and free and obligatory public health facilities.

SEEK 2 MISSING ARMY BOMBERS WITH 24 ABOARD

Wendover, Utah, Dec. 31 (AP).—Two Wendover field army bombers with 24 men aboard have been missing since Wednesday on a flight to the Pocatello, Idaho, air base.

They were last reported over mountain country near the Utah-Idaho border. Visibility was poor today, hampering search by army and civilian air patrol planes.

Names of the missing airmen were withheld.

ALLIES BEAT OFF JAPANESE DRIVE IN BURMA CLASH

NEW DELHI, India, Dec. 31 (AP).—Japanese troops have attacked allied forces guarding construction of the new "Burma road" to China thru the mountains east of the Mayu range in northern Burma, but have been thrown back, the headquarters of Adm. Louis Mountbatten announced today.

The year also ended in a blaze of glory for the R. A. F. when its airmen today caught a flock of enemy planes off the Bay of Bengal north coast and accounted for 13.

The new allied commander for southeast Asia reported heavy ground fighting in northern Burma, with the Japanese counter-attacking unsuccessfully and at the expense of many casualties.

Build Supply Line for Chiang.

The Japs attempted to throw the allies back from advanced positions east of the Mayu range, a war report said. Here Mountbatten's men are guarding a highway being built thru Ledo, in extreme northeastern India, with the eventual aim of supplying the Chinese forces of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek.

The allied war bulletin said the Japanese had suffered numerous casualties and that allied ground forces now are engaged in extensive patroling.

[The Berlin radio, quoting a Japanese report, said allied units had been repulsed near Numbyan in the Hukawng area, in northern Burma. The report said allied forces left 50 dead the first day and were beaten off with 250 dead the following day.]

In the air, it was announced, bombers and fighters ranged thruout Burma, striking at air fields, river, rail, and highway transport and enemy troop concentrations.

In today's R. A. F. blow against the enemy the British encountered the Jap bombers coming in with a fighter escort over the Arakan coast of the Bay of Bengal. Roaring into them, R. A. F. fighters shot down eight bombers and three fighters. Two enemy fighters also collided in the melee and were destroyed. In addition, three enemy planes were listed as probably destroyed and several others damaged.

Hit Rangoon Rail Yards.

Heavy bombers of the R. A. F. rained bombs on the railway center in Mandalay Monday night. On Tuesday United States medium bombers pounded the main air field at Myitkyina and were attacked by two Jap planes. One enemy plane was destroyed.

On Wednesday R. A. F. medium bombers raided Toungoo and Thursday night they blasted the rail yards at Rangoon, starting large fires.

From these and many other operations two allied aircraft are missing.

Laval Shuffles His French Regime with Help of Nazis

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, Dec. 31 (AP).—Reorganization of the Pierre Laval government in France under "friendly German direction" has been accomplished after a long crisis at Vichy, the Aftonbladet Berlin correspondent reported today. Among the changes are these:

Marcel Deat, ardent pro-Nazi, joins the cabinet as minister of labor;

Max Bonnafois retires as Laval's propaganda secretary but keeps his post as secretary of state.

Adolf Hitler's special negotiators, Otto Abetz and Dr. Cecil von Renthe-Fink, remain in France, the former at his old Paris post of ambassador, and the latter as special diplomatic delegate to Marshal Petain at Vichy, the correspondent reported.

Report Envoy Will Rule.

MADRID, Spain, Dec. 31 (AP).—The new German ambassador to Vichy, Dr. Cecil von Renthe-Fink, is Adolf Hitler's choice for gauleiter [governor] for France, according to reports from Vichy today.

Dr. Renthe-Fink, until recently the German minister in occupied Denmark, is said to have been ordered to prepare to take over the Vichy regime if and when Hitler considers it necessary. He is said to be expecting a complete staff of German experts in economy and finance who aided him at Copenhagen.

Received by Petain.

Otto Abetz, the German ambassador to Paris, and Renthe-Fink were received by Marshal Petain yesterday and held two long conferences with Pierre Laval, Vichy chief of government, and members of the cabinet.

In letters carried by Renthe-Fink to Petain, the fuehrer was said to have told the marshal he would find the new envoy a valuable assistant in making the Vichy regime "effective."

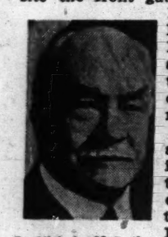
GLOBAL OUTFIT WARS ON CHICAGO WAY OF THINKING

'Difficult' City to Convert, Says Carnegie Report.

BY WILLIAM MOORE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—Opposite the front gate of the White House stands Nicholas Murray Butler's fortress against the thinking of Chicago and the middle west.



Dr. Nicholas M. Butler.

The fortress is a red brick building which houses the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, sponsor and financial supporter of the International Relations center of Chicago. Persons who have read the Carnegie organization's recent publications say it is devoting more and more attention to internationalism, and less and less to peace as such.

Dr. Butler, president of Columbia university and recipient of decorations from many foreign governments, has been president of the Carnegie endowment for 18 years. Associated with him on the board of trustees is Frederic A. Delano, uncle of President Roosevelt and chairman of the national resources planning board, which congress recently abolished.

Chicago a "Difficult" Town.

The Carnegie endowment's expression of the necessity of directing Chicago's international thinking is made in Dr. Butler's 1943 foundation year book, which says:

"There is no city in the country where effective education in the international field is more necessary and more difficult than in Chicago. As capital of the middle west, it influences thru its newspapers and radio the entire Mississippi valley, with over half the population the United States.

"It's prevailing opinion has often been characterized as isolationist, but perhaps it could better be characterized as indifferent to and suspicious of 'international propaganda' and 'New York colonialism.'

"These considerations were in mind in organizing the International Relations center of Chicago."

Wright Listed as Chairman.

The report lists Quincy Wright, professor of international law at the University of Chicago, as chairman of the Chicago center, which is situated at 84 East Randolph street in an annex to the John Crerar library.

Organizations sharing the center, according to the report, are the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations, the League of Nations association, the Library of International Relations, the two committees of the World Citizens association, the commission to study the organization of peace, the Chicago committee of the Institute of Pacific Relations, the American-Scandinavian Foundation, the college film center, the international film center, the national film board of Canada, and the Pan-American council.

Making a "Real Impact."

The Carnegie Foundation report commented:

"The center has had a good press and is already making a real impact on Chicago's thinking on world affairs. Hundreds of thousands of people are influenced directly by the lectures, forums, discussion groups, publications, and pamphlets arranged or distributed by the center and the coöperating organizations."

Similar centers have been established, according to the report, in St. Paul and Minneapolis, Minn.; Des Moines, Ia.; Denver Colo.; San Francisco, Cal.; Dallas, Tex.; Chapel Hill, N. C., "and in Toledo, Detroit, and Cleveland, O., for the area which has been termed the Ruhr valley of America."

Butler Runs the Show.

Dr. Butler directs the main headquarters here from New York. The organization has in addition a New York headquarters, where Dr. Butler also serves as director of the division of intercourse and education.

This division gives particular attention to relationships with the Latin American countries. Its budget is $307,954 for the year ending next June 30—almost half the entire Carnegie endowment's $631,663 appropriation.

The division coöperates with South American international groups and supplies them with publications and books. Thus the money of the late Andrew Carnegie, who endowed the Foundation, supplements the work done by a member of another of America's richest families, Nelson A. Rockefeller, coordinator of inter-American affairs.

Controversy in Congress.

Controversy is raging in congress now over the charges of Sen. Hugh Butler [R., Neb.] that government agencies have spent 6 billion dollars wastefully in the last three years promoting the good neighbor policy in South and Central America.

Carnegie established the foundation with a 10 million dollar gift in 1910. Dr. Butler was a member of the first board of trustees and became president in 1925.

Trustees include Silas H. Strawn and Edward L. Ryerson of Chicago, Arthur A. Ballantine, William Marshall Bullitt, W. W. Chapin, John W. Davis, George A. Finch, Douglas S. Freeman, Roland S. Morris, W. J. Schieffelin Jr., Maurice T. Sherman, James T. Shotwell, Harper Sibley, Eliot Wadsworth, Thomas J. Watson, W. W. Waymack, Ben Mark Cherrington, and Lyman E. Wakefield.

Among the achievements specifically mentioned by Dr. Butler in his report of the division of intercourse and education was the publication of a Spanish translation of Vice President Henry A. Wallace's speech, "The Price of Free World Victory," which the organization distributed in South American countries.

One of the Carnegie endowment's most recent publications is the third report of the commission to study the organization of peace, headed by James T. Shotwell, Columbia university history professor and director of the Carnegie foundation division of economics and history.

The report of this commission, which has a headquarters in the Chicago center, says there are many proposals for international public works in the post-war period.

British Lauded.

In its discussion of a permanent world order, the report says:

"Besides a common heritage and devotion to democratic principles, the American people realize that the invincible courage of the British gave the United States the opportunity to save itself, and the British recognize that the aid which the United States now gives them is real and sincere."

The commission report, issued last March, suggests policies for post-war feeding and care of war stricken nations which closely parallel the plans adopted at the recent organization meeting of the united nations relief and rehabilitation administration in Atlantic City.

Glad He Passed

Benjamin S. Adamowski, attorney for the board of election commissioners for the last three years and former state representative from the 25th district, yesterday was inducted into the army. Adamowski lives at 1647 North Nagle avenue and is the father of two sons, Benjamin Jr., 6, and Robert, 3.

Adamowski, 37 years old, availed himself of the 21 day furlough which is optional for men inducted for army service and will continue to work for the board of election commissioners and maintain his law office at 135 South La Salle street until it is time for him to report to the Fort Sheridan reception center.

Adamowski expressed pleasure over having passed the army physical examination.

POSTAL RULING BANS MAILS TO ART QUARTERLY

New York, Dec. 31 [Special].—The winter issue of View, an art publication founded three years ago, has been banned from the mails, the postoffice department today informed Charles Henri Ford, the editor.

The publication, which describes itself as a "quarterly magazine of art and literary criticism, news, and biography" was banned under postal regulation 589.

"We hold that barring from the mail of the winter issue of View is unjustifiable, and have sent a protest to Washington," Ford said.

The magazine circulates 5,000 copies, half on news stands and half by mail to subscribers.

LASHES WALKER 'I AM' COMPLEX IN ESQUIRE BAN

Rep. Compton Brands It Dictatorial.

BY LAURENCE BURD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—Revocation of Esquire magazine's second class mailing privileges by Postmaster General Frank C. Walker was termed today by Rep. Ranulf Compton [R., Conn.] "just one more regrettable example of the 'great I am' complex with which New Deal officials become imbued after a little personal contact with their boss, President Roosevelt.

"The postmaster general's action, I take it, is one of the important steps of the administration under its new 'win the war' program," Compton said in a statement. "It is absurdities of this kind on the home front that are retarding the war, and the pattern of the New Deal is still clearly apparent whatever the present label may be."

Walker Overrules Board.

Walker announced the Esquire decision yesterday, overruling a 2 to 1 decision in favor of Esquire by a three-man board he had appointed. The board had held hearings dealing largely with the question whether obscenity was present in the magazine's jokes and drawings, including the Varga girl sketches.

Walker did not rule the material obscene, but contended the magazine had failed to meet the requirement of disseminating information of a public character or devoting itself to literature, the sciences, arts, or a special industry. Esquire publishers have announced they will appeal to the courts against the ruling, which they estimate will cost them $500,000 a year in extra mailing charges.

Compton said Walker has set himself up as "sole dictator over the nation's reading matter" by overruling the recommendation of the board.

Lashes Walker's Excuse.

"The postmaster general has indicated he has taken this outrageous action in order to force congress to clarify the law," the congressman said. "That is comparable to a bank robber committing a murder in order to force the courts to determine whether murder committed in the commission of felony is first or second degree.

"If every crackpot appointed to office by the New Deal decides to issue arbitrary and ridiculous interpretations of present law in order to force the hand of congress, the nation will be in a sorry state."

A LETTER

FROM THE RICHMAN FAMILY

TO ALL MEN IN SERVICE

Dear Friends:

They tell us you long for letters from home above all else. Well, maybe we're not exactly "home," and perhaps this is not what you might call a "letter." However, you and we were pretty good friends before the war separated us—and we thought perhaps a few words from us might be of interest to you.

More than two hundred of our young men and women have gone into the Army, Navy, Marines and Coast Guard. More are leaving every day. There is a wound in our hearts for the gold star on our Service Flag—a star in honor of our own Johnny Novasel, who fell in battle in the South Pacific. Once in a while, some of our boys and girls come in for a visit, and we get a warm feeling around our hearts just seeing them, noting their progress and talking about old times.

We've made our share of Army and Navy uniforms. Of course, we've bought and continue to buy War Bonds. Those of us who can, have given blood to the Red Cross, some of us as many as eight times. Recently 275 of us took part in a single blood donation party. A while ago, we chipped together $1500.00 to an Ernie Pyle-American Legion Fund to buy "smokes" for Yank soldiers and sailors.

You might be interested to know that we have a Service Fund, to which each of us voluntarily contributes a dime or quarter weekly, and out of it we send our boys and girls in service ten dollars each month. When they are out of the country, we open a bank account, and deposit the money to their credit.

We don't deserve, nor do we seek any particular credit for doing these things. We consider it a privilege to do things for you, for our cause and our country, and we'll keep on doing them—gladly.

Believe it or not, those of us who are too old, or something, inwardly envy you. For while we are keeping the home fires burning, you are taking an active part in defending the most precious thing on earth—your personal and national freedom—and when this thing is over, the knowledge that you did your full part to preserve your American heritage will give you an inner satisfaction that will be priceless.

A chatty, homey letter like this—between old friends—would not be complete without a word about our business and how it's going while you are away. Yes, we're still making Richman Brothers Clothes, and doing our best to "hold the line" against inflation. And on the happy day when you come home, we'll be as proud to dress you up in "civies" as we were to fit you out in your uniform.

Here's hoping we'll be seeing you home—soon.

With every good wish,

Sincerely yours,
THE RICHMAN BROTHERS CO.

NO TIME TO EASE INFLATION FIGHT, OWI HEAD WARNS

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31 (AP).—Elmer Davis, director of the office of war information, tonight denounced the placing of private interests on the home front above the vigorous pushing of the war effort as "deserting in the face of the enemy."

The fight against inflation is in danger of being lost because, Davis said, "too many pressure groups are out for all they can get, regardless of its effect on the national economy."

"If a soldier at the front decided that he had done as much fighting as he needed to do and he might as well go home now, that would be called desertion in the face of the enemy," Davis said.

In Face of the Enemy.

"People at home who stop war work for no valid reason, or stop thinking about the war and put their minds on what they are going to do afterward, are deserting in the face of the enemy too."

Davis, who spoke on the radio, took the Washington Times-Herald and the New York Daily News to task.

Referring to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's statement that the European part of the war can be won in 1944 if civilians do their full part, Davis said these papers called that an advance alibi in case military plans went wrong.

Confidence in Eisenhower.

"The enemy, he said, will be grateful for this." He called it an endeavor "to undermine confidence in our military leadership," and said "most of us, looking at Gen. Eisenhower's record, will be likely to have more confidence in his plans."

"We are going into the most intense and most critical period of the whole war," Davis asserted, "and it is no time for anybody, whether business man, farm leader, labor leader or Washington burocrat, to decide that he has done all he needed to do and he might as well reconvert himself to peace time activities."

PAPER TOLD IT NEED NOT PRINT RADIO PROGRAMS

Denver, Colo., Dec. 31 (AP).—District Judge George A. Luxford dismissed today an injunction suit against the Denver Post seeking to compel it to publish listings of radio programs of station KFEL of Denver.

Judge Luxford cited an opinion stating that "a newspaper must remain free to publish such matters as it regards as possessing news value, and to refrain from publishing such matters as it may determine do not possess news value." Another opinion contained in the dismissal order said "if a newspaper were required to accept an advertisment it could be compelled to publish a news item."

In arguing against the Post's dismissal motion, attorneys for KFEL contended that omission of the listings from the newspaper's daily schedule of radio programs violated the Colorado unfair practices act.

COUNTY POLICE DROP 75 MEN IN STAFF SHAKEUP

Seventy-five county highway patrolmen were dismissed at midnight last night to conform with an order of the Circuit judges' committee on help, which fixes the number of employes in county fee offices, including that of the sheriff. The highway police are rated as deputy sheriffs.

Sheriff Michael F. Mulcahy said the reduction in the force from 155 to 80 men required a complete reorganization, and he spent most of the day working on the problem with Chief John L. McGinnis. The reduced force will comprise three lieutenants, six sergeants, and 80 men. One vacant lieutenant's job will not be filled.

DENY MILITARY POLICE SHIFTED TO RAIL DUTIES

'Gestapo' Term Held Unfair by Army.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—The war department today denied that the railroad strike afforded it an opportunity for the rehearsal of military police units.

Not a single military policeman was added to those now on duty on trains, an army spokesman said.

The only military personnel moved during the strike were military railroadmen, the spokesman said. These were shifted to strategic areas.

Trained for Battle Areas.

Military railroad units are made up largely of former railroadmen and others trained in railroading for service in battle areas.

The army's military units do not in any sense constitute a Gestapo such as that which terrorizes the populace of occupied countries and the German citizenry, the army spokesman said. The military police, zone of the interior, are trained to coöperate with civilian authorities, but their primary training is guard duty and policing of military forces.

Report Units Decrease.

The war department reported that despite reports to the contrary, military police units have been decreasing rather than increasing. In May, 1942, the force numbered 37,050 in 57 battalions. Since then it has been reduced to 11,786 men in 20 battalions.

"It is unfair to the army and to the military police to refer to these units as a Gestapo," the spokesman said. "The troops do not constitute a private army, but go to make up units which are necessary to the protection of military areas and to the maintenance of order in the army."

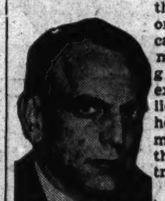
The army yesterday requested air line pilots and CAP flyers to be on the lookout for the missing plane.

LANDIS BELIEVED BACK TO TACKLE U. S. OIL PROBLEM

Return from Middle East Cited.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—James M. Landis' holiday visit to the capital took on new significance today when members of congress privately expressed the belief he is here to help solve the major question of the nation's petroleum supply.



James M. Landis.

That question is known to be the reason for many secret official conferences since Harold L. Ickes, secretary of the interior and petroleum administrator for war, released a report he previously had suppressed on c. proposed foreign oil policy for th. nation. The report, written by Ickes foreign operations committee, recommended an international oil compact for development and conservation of the world's oil and for the equitable distribution of the oil.

Active in Middle East.

Landis, former director of the office of civilian defense, has recently been in charge of all American economic operations in the middle east by appointment of President Roosevelt.

Members of congress familiar with the oil situation today said they believe he has seen the result of the oil operations in the middle east and returned to confirm the reports of the five senators who recently came back from an airplane tour of the world's battlefronts.

The senators said upon their return that Great Britain was not supplying its share of oil from its rich oil fields in the Persian gulf area. One of them, Sen. Ralph O. Brewster [R., Me.], since has been one of the leaders in the capital's raging controversy over the rapid depletion of American oil reserves.

The fabulous oil deposits of Arabia and Persia have been the center of this controversy, which is principally concerned with government participation in expansion of American oil operations in the middle east.

The committee report which Ickes suppressed frowned upon any government partnership with the oil companies, but recommended that the government give them free reign and then ease the way for them thru an international compact or organization to regulate policies.

Favors Government Participation.

Oil men say Ickes has indicated he favors government participation as an actual partner of the oil companies.

The report which Ickes at first suppressed was issued on Nov. 5 by the oil men who made up the committee. Ickes did not make it public, however, until Dec. 16, after some of its details were becoming known.

There have been assertions that Ickes suppressed the report because he wished to get the government into the foreign oil business thru the new Petroleum Reserves corporation.

Mrs. Gertrude Belleson, 31 years old, of 3822 Lake street, who is suing John, 29, a tool and die maker, for separate maintenance, told Judge John A. Sbarbaro in Superior court yesterday that her husband's associations with other women caused her great humiliation. Her attorney, Irving Eisenman, told the court that once Mrs. Belleson found him with another woman in the garage at their home, and that only Monday he received a birthday card from a woman named Sophia. Judge Sbarbaro allowed her $35 a week for support of herself and her daughter, Patricia, 6.

SIX CHICAGOANS GET TEN YEARS IN RACKET CASE

Judge Imposes Maximum Fines of $10,000.

New York, Dec. 31 [Special].—Maximum prison terms of 10 years and fines of $10,000 each were imposed today in federal court on six men, described as remnants of the Chicago mob of Al Capone, who were convicted last week of conspiring to extort a million dollars from the motion picture industry.

A seventh defendant, Louis Kaufman, business agent of the Newark, N. J., local of the International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employes, [AFL], drew a seven year sentence but also was fined the $10,000 maximum.

"The evidence showed the guilt of these defendants was practically without dispute," said Federal Judge John Bright in imposing the sentences. "Except for Kaufman, not one of them was a member of the union nor had any right to interfere with the activities of the union.

Disgraceful Conduct.

"The evidence amply sustains the verdict. The activities of these defendants were obviously in violation of an act of congress and certainly showed some indication of disgraceful conduct in the union."

The six Chicagoans are Phil D'Andrea, Francis Maritote, John Roselli, Charles Gioe, Paul de Lucia, and Louis Campagna. The judge ordered them remanded to jail but set bail of $25,000 for Kaufman pending an appeal of his conviction.

James D. C. Murray, chief defense counsel, said an appeal would be filed on behalf of all the defendants and an associate defense counsel said a motion would be made in the Circuit Court of Appeals to obtain bail for the Chicagoans.

Prosecutor's Recommendations.

Boris Kostelanetz, special assistant attorney general, recommended maximum sentences and fines for the Chicagoans and an eight year sentence for Kaufman.

"Altho the other defendants unquestionably are the greater criminals," he explained, "Kaufman as trustee of the union funds committed a greater crime. Racketeers could not exist without the aid of a labor official of Kaufman's class."

The prosecution had argued during the trial that the defendants were "higher ups" backing Willie Bioff and George E. Browne, labor leaders who were convicted in 1941 of extorting huge sums of money from film magnates. Bioff and Browne were brought from prison to testify for the government.

The defense conceded that payments by producers were made to Bioff and Browne to avoid labor trouble but contended they were bribes and that the seven defendants were not linked with the payments.

Convicted on Dec. 22.

The convictions were returned Dec. 22 by a jury of nine men and three women after 10 hours of deliberation. The case had been in progress since Oct. 5.

During the trial a parade of top flight motion picture executives testified to fear of bodily harm from the defendants and declared they were forced to meet the demands for large sums of money because of threats, coercion, and terror applied thru underworld control of theatrical labor unions.

Nine men had been named in the original indictment last March 19, but the count had been reduced to seven when the verdict was reached. On the day of the indictment, Frank Nitti, known as the gang's "enforcer," committed suicide after learning he was named. Later Ralph Pierce of Chicago won a directed acquittal verdict on grounds of insufficient evidence.

CHICAGO OFFICIALS PLEASED.

Law enforcement officials here were pleased yesterday when informed that the six Chicago men had been sentenced as racketeers in New York.

Frank J. Loesch, who fought gangster rule for 20 years as head of the crime commission, said he was glad they will be out of the way for a long time.

Mayor Kelly, State's Atty. Courtney, and Police Commissioner Allman said they were certain the Capone gang had been dealt a death blow.

KELLY'S SOLDIER VOTE PLAN WINS FERGUSON'S O. K.

Lansing, Mich., Dec. 31 [Special].—United States Senator Homer Ferguson who conferred today with Gov. Harry F. Kelly on the latter's plan to enable all qualified Michigan residents in the army and navy to vote in the 1944 general election, asserted he could see no flaws in the program and urged its coördination with federal plans.

Ferguson, a member of the senate elections committee, said the special legislative session called for Jan. 31 should adopt the governor's proposal to advance the primary election date from Sept. 12 to July 11 and should amend the state election laws so as to make the post card application forms distributed to the various war fronts by the federal government acceptable as application blanks for Michigan ballots.

Ferguson said he was confident that the advanced primary date would afford ample time for Michigan voters in the services to cast their ballots.

12,780 Vehicle Stickers Sold by City This Week

William P. Geis, deputy city collector, said yesterday that 12,780 city vehicle stickers for 1944 have been sold this week with the fees totaling $101,629. The first week sale is slower than a year ago, Geis said, and he attributed it to the fact that this year applicants must give the number of their 1944 state license.

BUSINESS MEN MAKE '44 VOW: TO SAVE PAPER

BY RITA FITZPATRICK.

Many of Chicago's leading officials and business men took an important New Year's resolution yesterday. They pledged themselves to the conservation and salvage of paper during 1944 and coöperation with the city's newly organized waste paper salvage program as a vital contribution to winning the war.

Mayor Kelly led off the roster with a brief ceremony in his office at noon. He personally tied a bundle of waste paper in the correct method advocated by the Chicago Newspaper Publishers association, which is spearheading the program, and presented it to the Chicago chapters of the Boy and Girl Scouts as a symbol of the city's future cooperation in the campaign.

Tells Dual Effect of Drive.

"It appears to me that the saving of waste paper today has a double effect," he said. "The first result of the program will be the strengthening of our war efforts thru the diverting of waste paper to the production of materials extremely essential to the successful prosecution of the war. The second result will be a marked improvement in the cleanliness of our own sidewalks and building lobbies. It seems to me that we can do a very acceptable job in cleaning out old files not only in the city hall but the county building as well.

"I have assured William L. McFetridge, chairman of the office of civilian defense general salvage committee, that we will immediately look into the condition of the files and salvage all those obsolete papers of no value to the city or county but of great value to our fighting men."

Plan to Save Every Sheet.

Paul Butler, president of the Butler Paper company, was one of the business men who stressed the importance of a paper conservation plan for business houses in 1944. "We are completely surrounded by paper in our business and consequently we appreciate the saving of every possible scrap," he said. "Unlike some firms who are burning their paper, we intend to save every sheet and in addition will start a survey of our files in our Chicago headquarters and in all 20 of our branches thruout the United States."

Every labor union office in Chicago will be asked to clean out its business files and contribute the obsolete records to the waste paper drive in an effort to increase the collection of scrap paper by from 800 to 1,000 tons daily, McFetridge, who is also president of the Chicago Flat Janitors' union, explained. McFetridge started the ball rolling by an investigation of the files in his own office and found that more than 6,000 pounds of paper could be made available.

The paper salvaged from office buildings is of a fine grade generally and badly needed to increase paper mill stocks thruout the country, he pointed out. It should be wrapped separately from newspapers and cardboards.

SAVE THIS PAPER AND SPARE LIFE OF FIGHTING MAN

After you have read this paper do not throw it away! Save it and you may save a life!

Precious, life-giving blood plasma is packed in containers made from waste paper. Some wounded soldier, sailor, or marine is depending upon blood plasma to reach him in the wilds of the South Pacific jungles. He is depending upon you. One hundred pounds of your scrap paper alone will make 200 containers for packing blood plasma.

Put your bundles of waste paper on the curb the morning of Jan. 15 for a city wide collection, the proceeds of which will go to a service men's centers. If you prefer, sell it directly to a junk dealer or give it to your children to take to school. But save it! You may save a life!

STEAL RUM, RADIO, AND $200.

Leon Tamkus reported to police yesterday that thieves who entered his liquor store at 1517 East 63d street Thursday night stole $2,000 worth of assorted liquors, $200, and a radio.

ILLINOIS SESSION TO BE FIRST ON SOLDIER VOTING

Legislature Called to Meet Jan. 7.

Jan. 7. Under the constitution the call limits the subjects to be considered—and these pertain only to soldier voting.

"This action has been taken after many weeks of the closest study of Illinois election laws," Gov. Green said.

"We are confident, after considering every physical condition and the element of time, that the legislation which will be submitted will protect the right of every son and daughter of Illinois in the armed services to cast their ballots in all elections."

Petitions of Candidacy.

Election law experts here said that the special session program has three main points:

1. To triple the period for applying for ballots from 30 days. If the session work is done by Jan. 15 the new period available will be 86 days.

2. To push back all of the dates in the election calendar for filing petitions of candidacy and other actions, so as to double the time for printing the ballot from about 20 to about 40 days.

3. To provide for the registration factor by having the soldier applications for ballots bear the applicant's statement as to residence and age.

Legislative leaders as well as election experts were at the seven hour meeting in the executive mansion. They were far from unanimity when they went in, but Gov. Green was insistent that the matter be settled before the New Year holiday.

Present with Gov. Green, Atty. Gen. Barrett, Schroeder, and Finkle were Arnold P. Benson of Batavia, president pro tem of the Illinois senate, Speaker Elmer J. Schnackenberg of the house of representatives, and Majority Leader Reed F. Cutler of the house.

MAYOR ASKS 1944 BE DEDICATED TO UNITY, VICTORY

Mayor Edward J. Kelly, in a New Year's day message, yesterday called on Chicago citizens to do everything in their power to hasten the day of ultimate victory and the winning of a just and lasting peace.

"It is the responsibility of every citizen to realize that 1944 will be the most crucial period in the history of this great democracy—a period which will demand from every American a greater measure of loyalty, of sacrifice and of patriotic devotion to the democratic ideals upon which this country was founded than ever before has been or will again be needed," he said.

"The year 1944 will see this nation's greatest all-out military effort in full operation—an effort which will require the utmost unity of spirit, intelligent thinking, and courageous action on the part of all the American people."

LABOR SHORTAGE AREA DECREED IN AURORA DISTRICT

The industrial Fox river valley from Aurora to Elgin was designated a group 1 acute labor shortage area yesterday by the war man power commission in Washington, D. C. The announcement constitutes notice to army, navy and other government procurement agencies to place no additional work in the area and, if possible, to withhold present contracts.

Michigan City, La Porte and Muncie, Ind., also were transferred from group 2 classifications [designating labor stringency] to group 1, in the WMC's monthly report of labor markets.

Chicago Stays in Group 2.

Chicago is kept in group 2, altho William H. Spencer, regional WMC director, warned that labor supply and demand here "remains in a state of delicate balance." He said Lester Brown, area WMC director, has started an analysis of reports on questionnaires sent to 26,000 Chicago firms for information on how the 48 hour work week will affect their employment requirements.

In the next six months the Aurora-Elgin area will need 4,000 new workers, Spencer estimated, in 43 war plants, including aircraft factories, munitions and ordnance plants, and iron and steel works in the Fox river valley. To meet this need, Spencer said he can see a potential supply of only 2,300 persons, including women and high school graduates not yet 18 years old, which would leave a deficit of 1,700 workers.

Heavy Demands Reported.

Heavy labor demands of new war factories in the Chicago area and the slowness with which women have responded to calls for help have placed the local labor market classification in teetering balance, according to WMC analysts.

On the WMC national list, the number of group 1 areas has risen from 67 to 69 in the January report. Ogden, Utah, and Santa Ana, Cal., are the only areas shifted to group 1 besides the Illinois and Indiana cities. The areas in group 2 have been reduced from 124 on Dec. 1 to 119.

HEART AILMENT FATAL.

Mrs. Anna Schmit, 40 years old, died yesterday in her home at 3331 Cuyler avenue of a heart ailment.

JUDGES SHIFTED; GUTKNECHT SITS IN SPEED CASES

Fifteen Municipal court judges were shifted in court assignments for January, announced yesterday by Chief Justice Edward S. Scheffler. Judge John Gutknecht will leave the Criminal jury court and return to Speeders' court, replacing Judge Gibson E. Gorman who will be assigned to the South State street court. The latter court had been presided over by Judge Oscar S. Caplan, who will hear personal property tax cases in January.

Judge Mason S. Sullivan will take over in Boys' court in place of N. J. Bonelli. Assignments in all of the outlying police branches also were changed.

At the same time, Judge Scheffler announced that a plan to expedite hearing of criminal jury cases had been adopted at a meeting of the judges. It provides for hearing such cases in the city hall courtrooms, instead of at the Central police building where they formerly were held. Under this setup, a judge in an outlying court who has a request for a jury trial in the morning can hear it the same afternoon at the city hall, where jurors are on hand.

FATAL STABBING HELD SUICIDE.

A verdict of suicide while temporarily insane was returned yesterday at an inquest into the death of Curtis W. Flowers, 28 years old, who stabbed himself with a butcher knife in his apartment at 8734 Blackstone avenue Thursday.

PROSPECTS FOR 1944.

Field Marshal von Hindenburg, writing about the other war, paid high tribute to the accomplishments of the factories of America when he said: "Her brilliant if pitiless war industry had entered the service of patriotism and had not failed it."

Industrial production rose to a peak of 78 in 1918 from an index of 48 in August, 1914, and from 62, the best previous mark. This was a notable achievement indeed.

But all that was done by industry then is dwarfed by what has been accomplished in the present war. The same index which was 78 at maximum in 1918 reached 247 in November, 1943, having risen from 105 in August, 1939, and 114 at the peak of the great boom year, 1929. We have only a third more people than we had in the last war, but we are turning out five times as much as in 1914 and more than three times as much as in our supreme effort in 1918.

The growth in 1943 was, however, at a diminished rate. Our production last year was actually only 11 per cent greater than in 1942. In each of the two preceding years the increase had amounted to 26 per cent. In the latter months of 1943 output did not expand at all. There is strong reason for believing that our industries have reached the ultimate in their expansion.

Further gain in capacity is not likely with the labor supply, already reduced, being further curtailed by the draft, and with the transportation equipment overtaxed.

We may even have passed the peak for another reason. The army and navy have more than they want of many kinds of equipment and supplies. There have been cancellations of orders and cutbacks. Officials have issued statements expressing the hope that there would not be too much local criticism for the unemployment caused by cutbacks. In one midwestern city, a rather large number are drawing unemployment benefits. The management in some of the new plants built at government expense has been told to go on a 50 per cent basis and explain that the other half is for standby use.

There will be reductions, too, in the production of some raw or semi-finished material formerly on the critical list. The supply of aluminum exceeds all military requirements. And the situation in what is always the No. 1 war stuff, steel, has eased materially. Iron Age recently discussed the prospect that operations of the mills would go down to 80 per cent of capacity because of cancellations of orders by the government and apprehension of some steel customers over large inventories.

Thus, there are strong indications that the government will be obliged to expand civilian goods production in a really important way, if for no other reason than to prevent unemployment from becoming serious in some of the war centers. The conversion will be staggered. In some communities there will continue to be expansion while in others the recession is already well advanced. Thus, employment has been sagging at Detroit in recent months while in Chicago the net increase in the number of hands in November set a record for that month. If Gen. Eisenhower's prediction that the war in Europe will be over in 1944 is realized plant conversion will be very extensive this year, for we shall have plenty of equipment and supplies to take on the Japs whenever Washington decides to do that in earnest.

If industry is permitted to turn to the production of goods for the home market promptly the danger of inflation will be materially lessened. Many thoughtful people believe that a catastrophic rise in prices is probable so long as the money which the people have so greatly exceeds the supply of goods. Automobiles, electric ice boxes, washing machines, and a great variety of other consumers' items of large value have completely disappeared from the market, while other goods of the same class, such as furniture, have become scarce.

Then, too, current incomes have increased two and a half fold since the war started and people are walking around with three times as much money in their pockets as they ever had before. They possess other capacity to spend in their greatly increased bank accounts and their savings bonds convertible at will into cash. Meanwhile, we have a President who has little ability to control inflation since he is running for reelection and his successful campaign formula has always consisted of stepping up the incomes of favored groups in election years.

Obviously, the course of business in 1944 is going to be powerfully influenced by the developments in the war and politics. If the war in Europe is brought to a successful conclusion and if the people seize their golden opportunity to turn out the bund which for twelve years plundered them and kept the country from getting out of the depression, 1944 may be a great turning point in our national history. If the war in Europe isn't ended this year, or if Roosevelt is reëlected—well, the consequences of such misfortunes THE TRIBUNE would rather not contemplate this New Year's morning.

OUR HOMELY MARINES.

Those who enjoy the savor of words will find pleasure in a few lines that appeared the other day in the Melbourne Sun. The Australian newspaper remarked that the people of its city had particular reason to rejoice that the United States marines' landing on Cape Gloucester, in New Britain, had been made with negligible losses, because the marines, before they embarked on the expedition, had won the hearts of Melbourne people.

After commenting on the American boys' smart appearance, their pride in their globe and anchor and Guadalcanal service patches, and their civility and courtesy, the Sun said:

"They were homely in our homes and sometimes—with a touch of nostalgia, no doubt—called their hosts and hostesses 'Pop' and 'Mom.'"

The context makes clear that the editor of the Sun used "homely" in one of its correct but rarer meanings. We are more accustomed to use the word in relation to personal appearance, in which its use, at least as applied to men, still is hardly derogatory. Perhaps this is because the most homely man in American history was also the best beloved.

But American and British dictionaries also justify the other usage. Among the meanings that the Oxford dictionary lists as rare are "characteristic of home as the place where one receives kind treatment," as well as "become one of the household." The homely man thus has a parallel of sorts in Mr. Boswell, who bore from his hero the accolade of "a clubable man."

Despite all the programs of lend-lease, cultural relations, and good will missions that are blossoming in every bureau in Washington, the impression persists that a far more permanent good will is being won for our country by the millions of American boys abroad who are homely in the homes of our allies.

THE ESQUIRE EDICT.

Postmaster General Frank C. Walker has issued an order revoking the second class mailing privilege of the magazine, Esquire.

Previously the magazine had been cited by the postoffice department to show cause why its second class privilege should not be withdrawn. There was an extended hearing before departmental examiners, which seemed to turn largely on the question whether the contents of the magazine were smutty or, perhaps more accurately, sufficiently smutty to justify the complaint. The examiners, by a 2 to 1 vote, decided for the magazine, but Mr. Walker has overruled them.

His decision seems to have disregarded the question of obscenity. His point is that Esquire is not entitled to second class rates because it is not uplifting. The purpose of the magazine, he says, is not to "disseminate information of a public character" and it is not "devoted to literature, the sciences, the arts of some special industry." Therefore, as these are the qualifications set up in the postal law for the second class privilege, Esquire is not entitled to it.

We cannot claim a particularly intimate acquaintance with Esquire and we do not admire its adolescent attitudes and preoccupations, but we know enough about it to be certain that so far as its devotion to literature, the arts, the sciences, and public affairs are concerned it is fully equal to many publications that have not been harassed and are not likely to be. Its contributors have included some distinguished names in letters and the other fine arts. In this respect it is head and shoulders above the great mass of looks, lifes, and assorted squints that crowd the drug store magazine rack, and incidentally, Esquire isn't any smuttier than a lot of them. Esquire is surely no less informative and uplifting than the westerns, the confessionals, the detectives, and the movie magazines whose privileges have not been withdrawn or even threatened.

We don't know for sure why Mr. Walker, the chairman of the Democratic national committee, has taken picks on Esquire but we can't doubt that he has. There ought to be a warning in this incident for all the little reds and pinks running around this country, including some of the contributors to Esquire. Here is a perfect example of governmental behavior. As matters stand, thanks largely to those of us who have fought for the preservation of the Republic, Esquire still can defend its rights in the courts, but if ever the government gets control of all industry and all publications [as in the soviet paradise] there will be no appeal from the chairman of the party in power. Everybody's livelihood and everybody's choice of reading matter will be determined solely and finally by the boss burocrats. Their literary tastes and prejudices will govern the land, and they will be subject to no external checks whatever.

LEPKE AGAIN.

Gov. Dewey of New York has been forced to grant "Lepke" Buchalter, the New York racketeer, a fourth reprieve from execution for murder because Mr. Roosevelt and his attorney general refuse to turn the prisoner over to state authorities.

Lepke arranged his surrender to federal authorities thru a keyhole journalist at the time that Mr. Dewey, then prosecutor in Manhattan, was looking for him for the murder of which he was later convicted. The gangster pleaded guilty to a narcotics charge and was sentenced to federal prison, from which he was taken to be tried and convicted of one of the numerous murders committed in his career as a labor racketeer.

Before he can be executed under the state sentence his federal sentence has to be ended. Atty. Gen. Biddle pretends that he is not surrendering Lepke because Gov. Dewey has not yet heard and denied the prisoner's plea for executive clemency. The governor takes the stand that he cannot conduct the hearing properly until he has the prisoner.

Other facts in the case indicate clearly that while Mr. Biddle is concerned lest Lepke escape the electric chair, it isn't because of any tenderness for the gangster. Lepke dead will be a tremendous relief to a number of prominent New Dealers.

His major depredations were in the industry organized by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers. The boss of that union, Sidney Hillman, is the grand marshal of the left wing labor forces working for the fourth term. Lepke has boasted that he will never die because he knows too much. If he started to sing for Gov. Dewey his tunes might prove exceedingly embarrassing to some of Mr. Hillman's associates.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

How to the Line, let the gnips fall where they may. Reg. U. S. Pat. Office

MR. PEPYS SEES IT IN.

1st Jan.—Saw the New Year in from my ivory tower, which is the best place for such observations after one has reached a certain age and sampled every kind of celebration that the occasion offers. Cast up my accounts and found that the income tax collector, who has been insisting on payment by guesswork, owes me money. Shall tell him about this on March 15, and would like to add some sarcastic remarks about a law that requires guessing in arithmetical calculations.

To make a fresh start, cleaned all litter off my desk at the office, and hung up a brave new calendar, and answered letters that had been neglected in the Yuletide excitement. Will keep my little Christmas tree on its shrine, with lights going, until the arrival of the Magi at Bethlehem, scheduled for next Thursday.

Long ago, I remember, New Year's gifts were permissible, especially between people romantically inclined toward one another, but I would not advise ladies who wished vainly for mink coats on Christmas to look for them today. The custom died out among us, but is still practiced among the French. Have read a short story by the French author, Maupassant, called "Etrennes," which deals with the importance of New Year's gifts.

This will be a grim year, I think, and so I extend my wishes for happiness in it, especially to soldiers, and sailors, and their families, with more feeling than ever before.

SALUTE TO THE NEW YEAR.

The stars go singing down the sky tonight,
With mighty organ tones we do not hear:
Each star is carrying a candlelight
In honor of the advent of the year.
The snow lies creaking underfoot; and where
The fringe of icicles on eaves is hung,
The wind is humming tunes upon the air,
Forgetting all the words he might have sung.
Time rules our earth and interstellar space,
Else man could not compute each star's return:
Forevermore they keep their measured pace
Within the constellations, as they burn.
All galaxies of time-swung stars on high
Salute the New Year in their passing by.

A Cat on New Year's Eve.

"What are you doing on the mantel?" I called to Ferdinand, my silver tabby cat, as I walked into the house late on New Year's eve.

"I am monarch of all I shurvey'," he quoted dramatically. "My right there is none to dispute. From the center all around to the sea [hic], I am lord of the fowl and the brute!' and by the way, where is he?"

"Who?"

"Why, the Man of the House."

"Shutting the garage up for the night, and I'd advise you to do the same."

"O, come now, my girl, leave us not be cross. Thash a very charming hat you have on . . . all two of 'em."

"You poor lamb," I cried, "you're lightheaded. I forgot to feed you before we left."

He waved a paw nonchalantly. "O, thass all right. I managed. I cleaned up that bowl of cream on the kitchen cabinet. Besht cream I ever ate. Must be magic. I didn't jump up here, understand. I floated."

"Ferdinand," I cried aghast. "You drank up the eggnog!"

"Musht be feeding the chickens something new these days," he remarked. "Woo, woo."

"What ever will the Man of the House say?" I cried.

"Don't you fret, my girl, I'll handle him. 'My strength ish as the strength of ten because my heart ish . . . because my heart ish . . .'"

"'Pure,'" I prompted. "And that I doubt."

"Don't worry about me," he advised. "I have a little pink pal in the corner, tho I can't imagine where he came from. He said he'd stick around a while and keep me company."

HAPPY NEW YEAR.

A greeting trite, so often lightly penned
We seldom realize how much it holds;
Until this year leads us to comprehend
The blessing this old message still enfolds.
From sunny lands new conquered comes a card
In gaudy colors, strangely eloquent;
A bridge, a tree, a foreign country-yard
That show the peace our army's vanguard meant.
This is the challenge to our unscarred fields
From sons and brothers in a war-dim clime
Who face the conflict with undaunted shields
Thru agelong days, yet find a moment's time
To think of home, and send a word of cheer
To wish us all a happy, bright new year.

GOOD HEALTH—A POINT OF VIEW.

THESE bodies of ours are not everlasting. We try to make them function efficiently for the normal span of life or until we have accomplished the tasks to which we have set ourselves.

With most of us the vital organs are built to last at least a hundred years, but disease enters the picture and few reach the century mark in full possession of mental and physical powers.

There are, however, certain attributes which endure forever—noble thoughts, lofty ambitions, consideration for others. Instinctively, we revere worthwhile phases of character in every one—sinner or saint. It once fell to my lot to care for the family of a notorious bank robber. He was successful in his "profession," but his one abiding interest in life was his wife and youngsters. He wanted them to have every opportunity for betterment. They loved him, not as a criminal, but because his influence in his home was everything that could be desired. When last I heard of him he was serving a long term in prison under an assumed name.

I was impressed then, and have been since, by the fact that this man possessed many fine sensibilities. His children became worthy citizens. I have known several men of distinction who merited less respect than this thief who, from early youth, went about with a price on his head.

This old world needs a revaluation of right living—a moral rearmament. Our free institutions cannot be safe unless the men and women in high places are actuated by unselfish motives. But the type of fiber which our natures must cultivate is that which springs from good physical health.

In order to stand four square with the world we must have sound pumping organs, a nervous system that cannot be swayed by every passing fancy, and brain cells which will enable us to avoid the morass of moral turpitude. We can pay lip service to the tenets of democracy but that will not guarantee freedom. Far more will be required—a rededication of every right thinking person to the basic concepts of a just society.

The measures designed to preserve and prolong life, which we employ today are not the result of discoveries made within the last 12 months. They have been evolved thru centuries of research. One grain of truth has been added to another until, a generation later, some one puts the pieces together, forming a perfect pattern.

It was Dickens' "Christmas Carol" which directed the thoughts of a stolid British public to the care of crippled children. This branch of surgery [orthopedics] experienced a rebirth. Instead of expending our surplus wealth and men in armed conflicts, we can more safely, and with more justice, ameliorate the conditions which breed disrespect for law.

We have no right to punish or destroy the physical houses in which we live. We have them merely in trust and every sense must be alert to their welfare. Barring accidents, the observance of a dozen hygienic principles will keep us well. A stout physique is a better home for a keen mind.

SHOPPING DISCOMFORT.

Mrs. J. N. writes: I carry quite a heavy bag of groceries each day for several blocks. This is quite a hardship as I experience aching arms. How can I avoid this?

REPLY.

There is much virtue in the old fashioned market basket. If you can use two such receptacles, so that weight is evenly balanced, little difficulty will be encountered.

ICY DRINKS.

N. S. writes: Why does drinking cold fluids cause pain in the chest of a man of 68?

REPLY.

Nerves are sensitive to cold. Many of us experience pain in the forehead after a swallow or two of ice water. The patient in question may have a mild anginal seizure. He should use liquids of room temperature or warmer.

Mrs. C. writes: When I take my baby out in the buggy red blotches come out on her face. These disappear as soon as she returns home. What causes this?

Slight sensitivity to cold, similar to chilblains.

Front Views & Profiles

By MARCIA WINN

Nominees at Home.

New Year's day is the time for people with lots of space to fill with words nominating a man of the year, meaning a man of the year we are about to try and forget. Believing that a job for the higher thought departments scattered all around on this page, this department here on the fringes of gentility hereby nominates the man of the year of 1944. Call him the man of the minute, the man of the hour, or the man nobody hears about. He is all of those.

The man of the year 1944 will be the man who never once says, "Don't you know there's a war on?", the man who never once says, "How do you like the weather?", or "What do you know?", the man who never pounces at you with "Have you heard the latest one about the psychiatrist going to heaven?", the man who never once says, "Say, I just heard a good one about Mrs. Roosevelt!", the man who never tries to pull that old one about the army, private going into the Pentagon building and emerging from its mazes a lieutenant colonel, the man who doesn't jeer about the WACs and WAVES and other uniformed women's services.

He is also the man who fits himself quietly and as best he can into whatever facet of the war is assigned to him at home, whether in a factory, in a field, or in half way down a mile of red tape. And he is the man who has the courage to say to an anti-Semite that he considers anti-Semitism criminal and un-American.

There are men like this, thousands of them, but they never make the headlines or even a small news item in fine print on a back page. They were like that in 1943, and they will be like that in 1944. They're our men.

The woman of 1944 will be the woman who doesn't bring up the domestic help problem at dinner, the woman who doesn't say, "O, I'm so sick of reading all this war news!", the woman who never says, "O, I just can't understand those old ration points—they're just so complicated!", the woman who doesn't tell you what a terrible time she has shopping these days when everything decent, my dear, just everything, is gone, the woman who doesn't pay black market prices for nylon hose and say, jubilantly, "I got these for only $5.20!", the woman who isn't supercilious about the WACs, WAVES, and service women with an "O, but, my dear, those horrible uniforms and those shoes . . . so unfeminine, don't you know? And, my dear, the things you hear. . . ."

She is also the woman who doesn't get a self-righteous glow when she buys a war bond, the woman who doesn't tell you every two seconds how worried she is about her husband or her son or her brother at war, ignoring the fact that the listener must be equally worried, the woman who writes letters, the woman who hides her tears and her sorrows and her frantic thoughts until she is alone.

There are women like that, hundreds and thousands of them, and you never hear of them, either. They, and what of themselves they impart to their children, are the future.

And while nominations are in order, we might as well nominate for radio newscaster of the year the man, whoever he may turn out to be, who does away with his singing commercial, pronounces all those Russian names the same way in the same speech, and neglects to tell us that the time of day is brought to us by courtesy of so and so when every one knows it comes by courtesy of the naval observatory.

And today seems a fitting time to pass on the observation of an ageless gentleman that years are like teeth. You never appreciate them until you try to buy new ones.

Happy New Year!

Misplaced Sympathy.

Pity is wasted upon the rose
Condemned to blush unseen:
It should go out in a rush to those Who redden where crowds convene.
Heave no sigh for the desert flower
Tho none may see it flush.
Lament for one who must openly cower,
Who, publicly, has to blush.

BONUS DENIED.

Chicago, Dec. 29.—I am employed by a La Salle street brokerage firm which also has offices in New York City. My employers wished to give members of their staffs both in New York and Chicago year-end bonuses this year. The firm did not pay a bonus in 1942 because of an exceptionally poor business year, but had done so in previous years, whenever earnings warranted such disbursement, which apparently cleared the way for a payment this year. At least, the regional board in New York City permitted the bonus payment to employes in our offices in that territory.

The same application that was approved in New York was made to the Chicago regional board on behalf of the employes of the local office. My employers have been unable to get approval here. I personally tried to contact a board official but found it impossible to get by the guard of secretaries, etc., in his office. I and my fellow employes have not had the benefit of war work, salary increases, and overtime, but we have had to pay increased living costs along with every one else. With parallel conditions obtaining in the Chicago and New York offices, it is hard to account for an approval in New York for the bonus, as well as salary increases, and no approval in Chicago.

Do New Yorkers simply get better treatment than do Illinoisans, or do we get a tougher brand of burocratic masters out here?

THOMAS N. BURNS.

STRIKES.

Chicago, Dec. 27.—Well, I see in the press that the Communist helpers of Tojo again have violated their oath, or pledge, not to strike for the duration.

I wonder how the members of the CIO who have sons in the South Pacific, praying for the materials of war that never seem to come, due to strikes, will face those sons if and when they return.

I believe in organized labor when the unions are headed and run by Americans in the true American way, instead of being headed by Communists in the Russian way or by gangsters and racketeers.

WILLIAM H. MORROW.

AMERICAN RADIOS IN BRITAIN.

Elgin, Ill., Dec. 22.—I have just read that 70,000 radios of British manufacture, and 14,000 American sets, which arrived in London recently, are to be sold to British civilians. If an American tries to buy a radio, he is told that there have been none manufactured since April, 1941, and that there will be no new ones until after the war.

JEANNE CHURCHILL.

WASTING PAPER.

Chicago, Dec. 10.—It is the same old story. This administration can throw away more with a teaspoon than the people can give by the bushelful. Asking for waste paper? All six of the inclosed "waste paper" pamphlets asking for some for war purposes were left at my door—a one family residence.

DOROTHY WAPPLER.

SWAP.

Ames, Ia., Dec. 27. — The President must feel it is safe to trade horses in the middle of the stream [New Deal to Win the War]. It at least shows he is abreast of the times and public opinion.

M. C. WOOD.

TALK LESS, DO MORE.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—We are told by a high-up official who chooses to remain anonymous that there will be 500,000 American casualties in the next 90 days. We are told this in order to stir us out of our complacency.

Perhaps a great number of American people are complacent, the strikers, the war workers who loaf on the job, the greedy politicians who put their own selfish interests above the good of their country, the complainers, and a great many who have no loved ones in the service. But what about the mothers, fathers, and wives whose sons' and husbands' lives are in danger? Do you think they are complacent when every waking hour is spent in worry? What good is talk like that going to do? It only lowers morale and increases the worry of those who are overburdened with it.

If some of our officials would talk less and do more, how much better off we would be.

KATHRYN ALLEN.

WASHINGTON POTLATCH.

Pelican Lake, Wis., Dec. 13.—I hope THE TRIBUNE, in the future, will go a little easy on the New Deal regarding lend-lease donations. The "One Worlders," et al., are merely following an old American custom, the potlatch.

Up to a few years ago, whenever a wealthy Indian belonging to certain Pacific coast tribes, died, his friends and neighbors would meet at the home of the late lamented one and hold a "potlatch." This was a feast lasting as long as the eatables held out. During this feast all the property and assets of the dead one were given away to those assembled. There is, however, this difference between New Dealers and potlatchers. The Indians waited until their Uncle Sam was dead before distributing his property.

WILLIAM P. RICE.

WHAT'S IN A NAME.

Chicago, Dec. 24.—The saloon was to be eliminated. This was done by changing the name to "tavern."

There must be no subsidies. Let's call them "price roll-backs."

Now let's forget all about the New Deal. A good cover-up title would be "Win the War."

But the New Deal cannot be so easily discarded. When the New Deal finally is liquidated by the Republicans it will be significant to record that the idea originated with its founder.

J. MILLER.

AMERICA LAST.

Waterloo, Ia., Dec. 23.—If the New Deal is ashamed of its old title, and wishes a change, why not adopt something truly descriptive? Most people would suggest: "America Last Party."

C. E. SHELDON.

Chicago, Dec. 30.—[Legal Friend of the People].—I hold a note, dated Dec. 1, 1933, which reads: "Within three years from date I promise to pay," etc. The note was never paid. Will you please tell me whether I still have time to attempt collecting it?

Yes. The Illinois limitation period is 10 years from the maturity date rather than from the date of the instrument.

Is Germany preparing for a 3RD WORLD WAR?

...Read Johannes Steel's answer in February CLICK

LATE LAST OCTOBER, a man arrived in London who, a few days previously, had escaped from Germany. He told agents of the British Secret Service that the Germans are already thinking in terms of a third World War.

Authoritative sources claim the German plot to steal the peace is being partly hatched right here in the United States by the Pan-German elements.

Can it really be true that "a political time bomb" is being manufactured here which the Germans hope will save them from the worst consequences of their inescapable defeat in World War II so that they can try once more 25 years later? Read the answer in CLICK, written by Johannes Steel, radio commentator, newspaper columnist and author of "Men Behind the War".

OPA INQUISITION CHALLENGED BY REALTY OWNER

U. S. Court Tests Right to Know Charges.

Frederick A. Gehm, a real estate owner residing at 2217 Belmont avenue, yesterday challenged in federal District court on constitutional grounds the right of the office of price administration to subpena landlords for inquisitions into their business transactions without informing them of the nature of complaints.

Gehm, who operates rental properties at 2146 Belmont avenue, 3048 Clybourn avenue, 2639 Wilson avenue, and 2114 Wellington avenue, was cited by the OPA rent section last March without being told whether any complaint had been made and, if so, on what basis, and was served with a subpena duces tecum ordering him to bring his records before the rent administration.

Refuses to Testify.

The landlord refused to bring his books until the OPA informed him of particulars of any violations of which he might be suspected. He was summoned repeatedly to the rent offices during the summer, he said yesterday, but he could not learn the charges against him.

John F. McCarthy, Chicago rent administrator, issued the final OPA subpena Oct. 16 directing Gehm to appear with his records Nov. 8. Gehm went to McCarthy's office without his records and refused to testify. Robert Johnstone, chief OPA enforcement attorney in this region, then filed an application in District court for an order for Gehm to show cause why he should not reveal his records.

Wins Delay in Hearing.

"This involves a question of violation of constitutional rights," Gehm said yesterday, when the OPA motion came up before Judge John P. Barnes. Gehm asked that the hearing be continued 30 days, saying his attorney was out of the city. Judge Barnes set the motion for argument Jan. 10.

"For at least the 15th time," Gehm said out of court, "I repeat the offer I have been making to the OPA: Upon the stating of a specific complaint of a technical or other violation, I will refute it by evidence, documentary or otherwise, and any violation brought to my attention will be speedily corrected."

CHARGE ARSENAL CHICKEN YARD COST U. S. $1,000

Hear Swimming Pool Built for $65,000.

Little Rock, Ark., Dec. 31 [Special].—Reports that a soldier helped build a $65,000 swimming pool for officers of the big army arsenal at near-by Pine Bluff and a $1,000 chicken yard for the commanding general's 12 hens and one turkey were added tonight to previous assertions concerning alleged waste and extravagance at the arsenal.

They were contained in a reply of the Little Rock Gazette to what it termed a war department "whitewash" of allegations in a story published in the newspaper two months ago that there were indications of waste in disposing of surplus construction materials at the arsenal.

Calls Charges Rumors.

The war department on Wednesday announced that after an investigation it had found the charges to be rumors having no basis in fact and that the waste, if any, was negligible considering the size of the project and speed of its construction.

"The whitewash with which a group of army officers smeared proof of extravagance at the Pine Bluff arsenal was not unexpected," wrote John L. Fletcher, city editor of the Gazette, in his reply published in the paper. He personally had investigated and written the original story.

"The [investigating] officers were given all information necessary to check on statements contained in the Gazette article," Fletcher said. "They saw pictures of metal window frames that never had been used and were sold for junk at half a cent a pound, electrically operated steam traps and great mounds of cable that were sold for junk, shovels cut from their handles so they could be sold for scrap, and about 30 elevated street cars from the elevated line in New York City.

Sold for Junk.

"The investigators were told where to find kegs of nails that had not been opened and other kegs that had been allowed to remain in the open and become rusty, all of which were sold for junk. They were asked to check the cost of paving roads within the arsenal and the cost of paving U. S. highway 65 near by.

"And yet, with all these evidences of fact, the war department committee said the reports were 'rumors without a basis in fact.'

"One investigator said they would look into a statement sent to Sen. John L. McClellan by a soldier stationed at the arsenal. The soldier said he helped build a $65,000 swimming pool for the arsenal officers and a $1,000 chicken yard for the commanding general's 12 hens and one turkey. Apparently these statements had no 'basis in fact.'

"The officers said after their investigation that they ran down rumors heard in Pine Bluff concerning quantities of material that had been buried to get it out of the way, but said they were unable to find any witnesses. This and other rumors were not published."

ALLOT $780,036 TO HOSPITAL FOR SOCIAL DISEASES

Officials of the Chicago Intensive Treatment hospital, 2449 South Dearborn street, which has treated 4,000 persons for venereal disease in its 13 months of existence, learned yesterday that $780,036 has been allotted to it by the federal works agency.

The action was announced in Washington, D. C., by Maj. Gen. Philip B. Fleming, federal works administrator. The allotment will assure continued operation of the hospital. Only $180,000 will be available at first, because of a shortage of FWA funds. Payment of the remainder will depend on whether the FWA receives more funds from congress.

The $780,036, approved by President Roosevelt, was estimated as the sum required to operate the hospital for a year.

The hospital, a joint city-federal project, was dedicated on Nov. 29, 1942. All treatment is free. Patients are received mainly from health department clinics, selective service, private physicians, and hospitals thruout the city. Entrance to the hospital is voluntary.

Types of Treatment Vary.

When a patient enters the hospital, he or she is sent to the diagnostic department. If infection is present, one of three types of treatment is given for syphilis and one of two types is given for gonorrhea.

The treatments for syphilis patients are:

1. The fever chemotherapy treatment, consisting of injections of mepharsen [arsenic oxide] and bismuth and the artificial induction of a fever of 106 degrees for eight hours in a hypertherm cabinet.

2. The intensive chemotherapy treatment, consisting of doses of mepharsen and bismuth for seven days.

3. A slower chemotherapy treatment for patients whose heart or lungs cannot stand the other treatments.

Sulfa Drugs Employed.

In gonorrhea cases the two treatments used are the fever chemotherapy treatment and the administration of sulfa drugs.

When a patient is released after treatment a request is made that he or she report back to the outgoing clinic at intervals for three months.

Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, president of the board of health, will not pronounce any of those released cured. He will say only: "The treatment we give appears to be as effective as the old three-year treatment. Time will tell whether the effect is permanent."

AUTOS KILL 516 IN 1943; LOWEST TOLL SINCE 1920

Motor vehicle accidents killed 516 persons in Cook county in 1943, the smallest number recorded since 1920, Coroner A. L. Brodie disclosed last night as the year ended. The total remained substantially under the 660 deaths in 1942 and 978 in 1941 despite an increase to 67 in December from 48 in the preceding year.

Coroner Brodie said the decline in traffic accident fatalities was caused by a reduction in the number of cars in use, the 35 mile an hour speed limit, and other war time restrictions on travel. Records of 1920 showed 491 killed in accidents.

The 1943 figures included 406 deaths in Chicago and 110 elsewhere in the county.

Merikay Howard's Betrothal Is Being Announced Today

BY JUDITH CASS.

NEW YEAR'S greetings to Miss Merikay Howard will convey her friends' wishes for happiness in her married life, for today Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Howard are announcing the engagement of their only daughter to Lt. Malcolm Whitlock Duncan of the army, son of Mrs. Arthur Duncan and the late Mr. Duncan of Winnetka. The wedding will take place at 8:30 p. m. next Saturday in Christ church, Winnetka, the Rev. E. Ashley Gerhard officiating, with a reception following at the Glen View club.

Miss Howard, who attended the Kingswood-Cranbrook school in Bloomfield Hills, Mich., and Briarcliff Junior college, made her debut four years ago and is a member of the Service club. Lt. Duncan attended St. Albans school and Amherst. He will arrive next Thursday, and after the wedding will take his bride to Hershey, Pa., to live.

Miss Howard will be attended by two former Briarcliff roommates, Mrs. Ralph J. White of Ossining, N. Y., and Mrs. Alfred Coyle Jr., whose husband now is stationed at Fort Sheridan; Miss Joan Littlefield, Miss Mary Jane Mertes, Miss Jean Horgan, and two cousins, Miss Carolyn Kuehnle and Julia Kuehnle. Mrs. White will be matron of honor, and Julia Kuehnle will be junior bridesmaid.

William Duncan of Lansing, Mich., will be his brother's best man, and serving as ushers will be the fathers of five young men who are away on active service in the army or navy. The fathers are Carl Hamilton, Ernest S. Ballard, Shepard Roberts, Ralph Rockwood, and Ray Fowler.

Miss Howard is in the midst of a whirl of parties. Miss Horgan and Miss Jean Fitch are giving a bathroom and kitchen shower Monday night. Miss Littlefield is giving a shower Tuesday. Miss Mertes is giving a dinner and linen shower Wednesday at the Chicago Athletic association. Mrs. Edith S. Howard will give a dinner Thursday night; Mrs. Carl F. Kuehnle will give the bridal dinner for her granddaughter next Friday, and Mr. and Mrs. Ballard will give a luncheon the day of the wedding.

New Year's Receptions.

Toasts to a brighter New Year will ring out at a number of gatherings today.

A good proportion of the Calvin Fentresses' large family will be on hand to assist them at their annual open house from 4 to 7 p. m. in Hubbard Woods. Here for the party will be Jamie Fentress, who is in Chicago doing chemical research; Dr. and Mrs. Thomas L. Fentress, Lt. and Mrs. Bruce Benson [Harriet Fentress], and Mrs. John N. Ott Jr. [Emily Fentress]. Mr. Ott is stationed in Farragut, Idaho, with the navy, while Paul Fentress also is serving in the navy, with Point Montara, Cal., as his base. Mrs. Calvin Fentress Jr. is in the Evanston hospital with a new baby.

The Kent S. Clows will be serving egg-nogg as usual today in their Lake Forest home.

Mr. and Mrs. William H. Mitchell are entertaining at home in Lake Forest this afternoon. In addition to welcoming the New Year, the occasion will mark the hosts' second wedding anniversary.

The Waldo Logans' clever Christmas cards purported to be from the office of cheer administration and contained coupons which might be pulled off for various forms of entertainment. They also served as invitations to an open house today.

Members of the Chicago club will gather there for the traditional New Year's day luncheon, which will follow the same simplified pattern of the last two years since war prevented the importing of the delicacies for which the New Year's day parties were famed. William McCormick Blair heads the club.

Other New Year's Notes.

The New Year's house party that the junior Walter Kohlers give every year in Kohler, Wis., is made doubly gay this year because of the arrival of Lt. Kohler, just back from active duty with the navy. Mrs. Kohler's sisters, Mrs. Sidney S. Gorham and Mrs. James G. Conger, and their husbands will be in the group as usual. The Congers just have returned from Washington, D. C., and have taken a house in Lake Forest.

The William S. Monroes are not having their regular New Year's open house this year.

There won't be a Tom and Jerry party at Mr. and Mrs. J. McWilliams Stone's Geneva home this year because, in the words of the host and hostess, "Jan. 1 is still just a Saturday." These New Year's day gatherings at Stonewood were famous ones until the United States entered the war.

Miss Sylvia and Miss Phyllis Peter have asked a few of their Lake Forest neighbors to drop in for egg nogs after 5 p. m. tomorrow in the home of their parents, the William F. Peters.

Five Young Women to Make Debuts This New Year's Day

BY HARRIET PRIBBLE.

A GOOD percentage of the Happy New Year greetings that will be heard today will be salutations at the debuts of no less than five young women. A sixth will bow tomorrow. They are Miss Suzanne Ford, Miss Barbara Shannon, Miss Gwenyth Bingham, Miss Deborah Wilder, and Miss Ann Harvey, who officially are entering adult society on the first day of 1944, and Miss Betty De Lascaille, who bows tomorrow.

Before a mantel banked in silver tipped white pine and centered with a bouquet of silver and white tulips, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Scott Ford; their daughter, Suzanne, and their niece, Miss Shannon, will receive from 4 to 7 p. m. today in the Fords' Winnetka home. Among those assisting the two debutantes will be Miss Jane Zerby of Pelham, N. Y., who was Miss Ford's roommate at the Emma Willard school, and Miss Rita Knight of Akron, O., a cousin of Miss Ford.

Miss Shannon's sister, Mrs. Cheves T. Walling, is here from Upper Montclair, N. J., for the party, which will be followed by dinner and dancing in the Boulevard room of the Stevens hotel for the two buds, their assistants, and escorts. Miss Ford attends the Finch school. Miss Shannon, who lives with the Fords, is a second year student at Bradford Junior college.

More Debut News.

Miss Bingham will bow at a tea from 4 to 7 p. m. in the Highland Park home of her parents, the junior Samuel H. Binghams, and afterward 40 of her young friends and their escorts will stay on for a supper-dance. Tomorrow Miss Julie Zischke, one of the assistants today, and her mother, Mrs. Herman Zischke, will give a breakfast for a "mixed" crowd of young persons, friends of the debutante. Miss Bingham, who attends Bennington college, will be at home until April, studying at the Goodman theater as her major project.

Miss Wilder will wear a long sleeved gown of holly red velvet for the "at home" which her parents, the Emory H. Wilders, are having in Dundee after 5 p. m. to introduce her to society. Miss Marion Carr, who was at the Stoneleigh-Prospect Hill school in Greenfield, Mass., with Miss Wilder, is here from Dayton, O., for the party, to be among the assistants, who, with some of their beaux, will stay on at the Wilders' for a week-end house party.

William Spencer Harvey Jr. and his sister, Miss Alice Flash Harvey, are entertaining informally at home from noon to 2 p. m. for Mr. Harvey's daughter, Ann. About 80 young women of debutante age and their escorts have been invited to the breakfast.

Debut Parties Tomorrow.

Miss Betty De Lascaille's debut will be a small open house from 4 to 7 p. m. tomorrow for young friends of the debutante. The party will be given in the apartment at 547 Hill terrace, Winnetka, to which Miss De Lascaille's mother, Mrs. Jules De Lascaille, moved when she gave up her home recently. Miss De Lascaille, who attended Sarah Lawrence last year, is spending this winter at home.

The Henry N. Rowleys are giving a small luncheon tomorrow at the Onwentsia club for three of the season's buds, Miss Flossie Curtis, Miss Helen Priebe, and Miss Diana Prosser.

Thru the Looking Glass

It occurs to us that this year more than ever the most blessed wish a beauty editor could make for her readers, who are presumably interested in acquiring beauty and maintaining it, is for a healthy as well as a happy New Year. Health is more than beauty's handmaiden. It is the source from which beauty springs and heaven knows it's its mainstay.

And this year more than ever women have a special obligation to keep physically fit. If not for sweet vanity's sake, for that of common sense alone. You don't need a crystal ball to predict that the year probably will be lacking in sweetness and light and fun like crazy. And you don't have to be a master mind to foresee that we women are going to be called upon for a good bit of hard work and fortitude. Health is essential for both.

—o—

You couldn't make a better resolution in this season for that sort of thing than to vow on a stack of Bibles that you and your children will learn and practice everything you can about the prevention of illness as a favor to yourselves and incidentally as a kind of a selfish one to the harassed doctors and nurses in your community.

Decide to eat right, work right, rest enough, exercise enough. Make a thoro and relentless examination of your own faults in the matter of health—your bad diet habits, or drinking habits, maybe; your tendency to put off exercise until the tomorrow that never comes, or the tendency to put off the physical checkup until that same vague date.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MAC KAY

Resolutions.

Resolved:

That all business firms shall discard arty, bizarre letterheads and use stationery which shows the name, address, and postal zone in plain, clear print.

That all telephone transactions shall be promptly dispatched with no undue conversation and meaningless pleasantries.

That all companies shall wrap, tie, and place on the shelf such archaic expressions as "Contents noted" . . . "With kindest personal regards, I remain" . . . and "Thanking you for past favors."

That all service industries shall endeavor to forget "There's a war on" and all customers of service industries shall try to remember "There's a war on"—without being reminded of it.

That each one of us, from the messenger girl to the chairman of the board, shall bear in mind that, when untold sacrifice is demanded of our American men on lonely islands, we, on the mainland of American business, must do our part conscientiously, earnestly, and unflinchingly. DORIS ANDREWS.

Next Year.

Next year, along about this time, I'd like to read something like this in the White Collar Girl column:

Here is one way an employer wins coöperation, loyalty, and all the qualities which make an ideal office organization. He eats his lunch at his club. He has about 50 employes working for him. As he keeps a record of the birthdays of all these employes, he invites them to lunch with him at his club on that day or the nearest convenient day. If the employe is a girl, he asks her to invite another girl or man so no harmful comment may arise.

Over a period of a year he thus meets and becomes better acquainted with his entire staff of workers and the result is a close knit, efficient organization.

ONE OF THEM.

Happy New Year.

How to keep an office happy:

Establish a regular policy about raises which is known and understood by all employes.

Shun feuds and partiality.

Avoid groups of relatives in one department.

Consider war nerves and create a friendly working atmosphere.

Keep conversation on a high level.

Top all this with the unmatched blessing of quiet. RUTH MEADE.

1943 Big Year for Fashions, Despite Curbs

BY REA SEEGER.

Recollection of fashions of 1943, now filed in history, includes memories of sleek streamlines firmly controled by priorities, also the patriotic efforts of American designers. The silhouette still frozen unquestionably is the most becoming streamline imaginable. Neatness is its supreme test because it is so mercilessly revealing.

It was the year the elastic supplies practically vanished and cotton tapes on blouses and vestees took the place of elastic bands of former years. Silks of any kind zoomed in price and some of the all-silk remnants assumed the importance of collectors' pieces. Fiberset rayons banished all the disagreeable hazards of home sewing, permitting seams and silhouettes to keep their original lines. Also, it was the year when the prices of smart rayon fabrics equaled the price marks of silk. Designs and colors and color combinations were exquisite and worth the money asked.

Hats achieved new fashion importance, first as one of the most potent of morale builders, secondly, because none of the "makings" required priorities, and, thirdly, because a new hat worked magic for a well worn suit or costume—and there were plenty of well worn ensembles. Feathers came back, with special emphasis on domestic fowls. Yes, hens and roosters certainly gave their all for the fashion headlines of smart American women. The year 1944 should—and will—go down in big letters as the year the American designers finally staged a big fashion show of their own with all the fanfare and press reviews formerly accorded the mesmerizing names of French couturiers.

Children Need a Stable Home in War Time

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1944: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

Children need firm ground under their feet. Mother, father, and a real home represent security, not only of place, but of all those things which are necessary to a young person: affection, faith, interest, and a guidance based on wisdom.

War in itself, the separations of war, and the dislocations that inevitably take place in thousands of homes, shake this feeling of security—and shake it dangerously. The mother of the family, or some one else who cares greatly must be alert to the danger, and offset it by making home a warm, alive place to be in, and by relating the life of the children to the real life of the world. We can't just sit back, and expect youth to go thru this crisis scot-free.

As the National Probation society states:

"Of course some fathers have gone into the services, and there will be more of them as the war goes on. The government makes a generous allowance in addition to what the soldier may send home, but the loss of fathers and sometimes of older brothers may have a serious moral effect on young boys. On this point an able juvenile probation officer writes:

"'Where homes remain stable, even if the father is away, and if the youngsters are given something to do which satisfies their desire to be taking part in the war, they get along all right. The war is accelerating the spirit of adventure always present with the adolescent. Unless it is directed into right channels, either by the family or by the responsible community agencies, runaways, sex delinquencies, and juvenile crimes follow.'"

Tudor Number Done by Ballet New Year's Eve

BY CLAUDIA CASSIDY.

As a special flourish for New Year's eve, Ballet Theater tucked Antony Tudor's "Judgment of Paris" into the Civic Opera house bill, preceding the satirical jest with "Princess Aurora" and "Dim Lustre" and following it, appropriately enough, with "Helen of Troy."

Neither Tudor nor Fokine-thru-Lichine has taken the Grecian legend with more than a grain of salt, but where "Helen of Troy" flirts a kind of outmoded musical comedy thru Offenbach music, "Judgment of Paris" tells a sardonic tale to Kurt Weill's mordant commentary in music. Its three goddesses are raddled entertainers in a honkytonk, who interrupt their bored leisure to entertain a customer, than fleece him, while the weary waiter stands idly by.

Mr. Tudor plays his own eager customer, with Hugh Laing moustached in disguise as the waiter, and last night's goddesses were Lucia Chase with a moulting feather boa, Maria Karnilova as a blowzy blonde, and Janet Reed as a soubrette who has the honor to be known as Juno. Each in turn parades her little bag of battered tricks, then drops the whole business of seduction with the relief of one who happily exchanges a tight shoe for a comfortable slipper. Like most of Mr. Tudor's work, "Judgment of Paris" is keenly observant, and what it sees is as dreary and cruel as it is amusing. It's the seamy side of show business when the lights go off.

Nana Gollner was the new Helen of Troy, but otherwise it was largely a Nora-Kaye evening. Miss Kaye not only repeated her success with Mr. Tudor and Mr. Laing in the brilliant bout with memories called "Dim Lustre," but she also danced the title role in "Princess Aurora," and it was a revelation of unsuspected talents. Most of us know Miss Kaye as the highly strung instrument of Tudor's finest choreographic expression, a sensitive actress with a plastic body that captures and projects what he has best to say. But here she was in a classical role, dancing exquisitely with Anton Dolin, and bringing to the part a fire of spirit rare in ballet. This was once Aurora and her cavaliers were rivaled but not outshone by the Bluebirds, brilliantly as those feathered favorites were danced by Eglevsky and Hightower.

Museum Closed Today.

The Chicago Natural History museum will be closed today. The New Year's holiday and Christmas are the only two days of the year visitors are not admitted.

Women in War Work

By Kate Masses

Civilian war activities in 1944 will be accelerated, it is indicated by plans formulated by numerous civilian war agencies and the army and navy. There will be increased calls for salvaged materials, for blood donors, for enlistments in the women's services, and for hundreds of volunteer workers, as well as for more women to enter war plants.

To Chicago women spending New Year's day planning a workable and worthwhile set of resolutions, this department suggests the following for inclusion in the list:

Buy more war bonds.

Become a regular blood donor. [The Red Cross center is at 5 North Wabash avenue.]

Save a tablespoon of kitchen fats a day, all waste paper, and tin cans. Drives for all three are being intensified.

Sign up for volunteer work with agencies serving the war time public in information office, canteens, hospitals, and bureaus. The Red Cross, the Central Information bureau, and the volunteer bureau of OCD are three such agencies.

Get a war job. One way to do it is to visit the nearest office of the United States employment service.

Take war job training. The Illinois Institute of Technology, 1951 West Madison street, the University of Chicago, and Northwestern university all offer war training free of charge, as does the Chicago board of education. Most war plants have programs to train workers on the job.

If you're eligible by reason of health, age, and educational background, and have no dependents under 14, join the WAC, the WAVES, the SPARS, or the women's reserve of the marine corps.

The Army Air Force Aides, headed by Cadette Col. Cleone Cook, will participate at 8 p. m. Tuesday in the organization meeting of the radio workshop of the army aviation cadet board, of which Capt. F. A. Wilgus is senior officer. The session will take place in the studios of the Columbia Broadcasting system in the Wrigley building.

Many well known Chicago radio personalities already have volunteered their time to the workshop, which, thru special entertainments, will inform the public about the aviation cadet procurement program. Fred Killian, Columbia network producer and director, will have charge of the workshop.

The AAF Aides will form the nucleus of the group, and do most of the clerical and administrative work, as they do for the board itself.

Actors and actresses, directors, and script writers who are interested in helping the board's program are invited to attend the meeting, or to telephone Harrison 8373.

The Chicago unit of Bundles for America, with headquarters at 337 North Michigan avenue, is seeking knitters to create navy helmets, sweaters, and gloves. Instructions for knitting the garments will be provided by Bundles to women who call at headquarters to purchase the yarn, which is supplied at the cost price of 55 cents a hank.

Mrs. John H. Abbott is chairman of the knitting project. Mrs. George F. Hartford is president of Bundles' Chicago unit.

Looking at Hollywood

By Hedda Hopper

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Dec. 31.—Happy New Year! . . . "What," you ask, "did Hollywood do this year at war?" . . . You're stuffing shells at Edgewood arsenal, digging iron near Hibbing, Minn., sorting coal in Illinois, plowing the soil and harvesting the crops, doing a war job in big towns and little towns from New York to the Golden Gate. You have borne and raised the boys who are crawling along the road to Rome; flying satan's hell route between England and Germany; fighting fever and Japs in the South Pacific. You have a right to ask what Hollywood's job has been in '43. . . . Detroit, Chicago, Pittsburgh take iron and steel and turn them into bombs, tanks, big guns, and ammunition, but where the lathes of the industrial east and west turn out machine tools and plane parts and lethal weapons, the lathes of Hollywood turn out new tunes, drama, and humor.

Serving Unseen.

You all know what actors have done to entertain our men in army camps and hospitals, and overseas, and to help on bond tours. . . . Oscar awards are given stars for great moments on the screen. But I'm proposing we give Oscars, in the form of screwy favors, for great moments on Command Performance, top radio show of the A. E. F. I'm not speaking of Leopold Stokowski and 100 men playing for the G. I. cooks at Dutch Harbor, or Paul Whiteman doing Rhapsody in Blue for the "Grease Monkeys" in Australia. I'm speaking of the requests to Command Performance for stars to do things that a few years ago were unheard of. . . . To Glenn Wheaton, originator of it, and slightly fanatical in his concern to see answered all the letters directed to this top show of the A. E. F., no request is unusual.

They Aim to Please.

For example, he thought nothing of approaching an actress like Carole Landis to have her answer this letter: "Dear Command Performance: I'm in a Pearl Harbor hospital, still recuperating from Dec. 7. I have a request that would take up little of your time. Please have Carole Landis step to the mike and sigh — that's all, brother, just sigh. I'd be so happy!" Carole was introduced by Don Ameche, and did the shortest act on record — a sigh for that man at Pearl Harbor. . . . Take Adolphe Menjou. That suave gentleman has held his own in some mighty pictures. One night on Command Performance he starred in the role of jerking the handle of a slot machine. A flood of nickels rushed out, clattering around his feet — all because two Nevada boys, then in Africa, longed to hear the Las Vegas symphony of plums, cherries, oranges, and cross bars again.

Took a Little Doing.

Glenn sweated it out for three weeks before getting the great violinist, Jascha Heifetz, to team up with the world's worst, Jack Benny, to play "Love in Bloom-Iosio." Jack [I can go along with a gag] Benny was agreeable from the first phone call; Heifetz needed a little selling, but eventually came thru like a trouper, and that recording remains a classic. . . . Bob Hope found himself one night in the role of an organ grinder playing "Sidewalks of New York" for a New Yorker over in China. . . . Dinah Shore held a cocker spaniel up to the mike to whimper for its master overseas. . . . Lana Turner faced two requests one night, did one of them. The first asked her to do "something, if only to recite the alphabet." The second asked Lana to fry a steak; the boys wanted to hear a porterhouse sizzling. Hope introduced Lana, she popped the steak onto a hot griddle, and everything sizzled, including Hope.

According to Culbertson

[Copyright: 1944: By Ely Culbertson.]

"Dear Mr. Culbertson: It's all very well for the moralists and the police departments to preach that 'crime doesn't pay,' but take a look at the following deal and then try to convince me that the straight and narrow path is the best. Just try!

"North, dealer.

"Both sides vulnerable.

"I was East, and this is the way the two maniacs in the North-South seats bid the hand:

North	East	South	West
1 club	Pass	1 spade	Pass
2 clubs	Pass	3 spades	Pass
3 no trump	Pass	4 spades

"How would you like to find yourself in a four spade contract with those hands? This particular South loved it!

"West got off to an unfortunate opening lead, the five of hearts. [He certainly had a tough opening lead problem, and despite the result I, for one, didn't criticize his choice.] Declarer's first break came when he was able to win with the heart queen. He led a diamond toward dummy. Second break: the ace was on side. Actually, West ducked and the king won, but it wouldn't have done West any good to put up the ace. Now declarer cashed the heart ace, ruffed a diamond, ruffed a heart, ruffed another diamond, and then laid down the trump king. I won and returned a diamond. Declarer ruffed, cashed the trump queen, then led a club. West played low without the slightest hesitation, but this seventh-son-declarer went right up with the club king! He was kind enough to concede us our high trump, West's jack, but the contract was on ice.

"What would you say the chances were of making four spades with the North-South cards, assuming normal breaks and any reasonable defense?"

I can well understand my correspondent's disgust over this deal, for the fact is that the four spade contract was decidedly out of line and had about one chance in 30 of being successful.

News Is Given of Marriages in Recent Days

The marriage of Miss Ethel Steyer Tenck to Lt. James Pineo Grant of the army took place at 8 p. m. Thursday in the John Timothy Stone chapel of the Fourth Presbyterian church, with a reception following in the home of Lt. Grant's mother, Mrs. Hill Grant of Lake Shore drive.

Miss Henck's sister, Catherine, was her maid of honor, and their brother, Putnam Henck, who just has returned from three and a half years in Ecuador, served as best man. Also here were the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph E. Henck of Skyforest, Cal., and another sister, Mrs. William Richey of Los Angeles. Missing from the family circle was Lt. Grant's father, Dr. John B. Grant, who heads the All-India School of Hygiene and Public Health in Calcutta, India.

INVASION EVE OVERSHADOWS LONDON GAIETY

Troops Swell Celebration to Record Size.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 31.—Deprived of the usual peace time accoutrements of glitter and fanfare, more people than ever before attempted to celebrate the passing of the old year and the birth of the new tonight. Besides numerous Londoners and out of towners tens of thousands of members of the fighting forces of the allied nations, of whom the greater number were Americans, crowded into the overflowing hotels, cafes, restaurants, clubs, and pubs.

Thousands paraded the streets, particularly Piccadilly as usual, but at St. Paul's cathedral no night watch service was held, tho a few hundred persons gathered around the front steps to sing radio hits and "Auld Lang Syne."

Tense Over Invasion.

Despite this, the gaiety failed to reach any really high pitch. There were many reasons for this. Underlying all the celebrations was the tension over the early invasion of Europe in which Prime Minister Churchill had predicted heavy casualties must be expected. This combined with natural war weariness gave a synthetic atmosphere to the jubilation.

On top of this were the more than usual restrictions. The government's refusal to extend liquor serving hours beyond those normally allowed, the lack of transportation, the termination of bus service long before midnight, the shortage of accommodations in hotels, the scarcity of liquor, the high prices—champagne is selling at $25 a bottle—put a crimp in public celebrations.

Pack Pantomime Shows.

Londoners as usual packed the theaters, especially the pantomime shows so popular over the Christmas and New Year's holidays. The movies also did a record business. There were very few watch night services held in the churches. These normally are among the main features of New Year's.

Despite the lifting of the ban on church bells, the most familiar to Londoners in ringing in the new year in peace time, were silent.

Puffer's Son Gets Air Cadet's Wings

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Capt. F. A. Wilgus of the army air forces presenting to John Allan Puffer, 17, the wings of the air force enlisted reserve, while John's father (center) looks on.

Enters Next Year

John A. Puffer, 17 years old, son of Noble J. Puffer, Cook county superintendent of schools, yesterday received the winged emblem signifying his acceptance for army aviation cadet training in his father's office at 160 North La Salle street. Young Puffer was sworn into the air corps enlisted reserve last Monday but will not be called for duty until after his 18th birthday, Oct. 22, 1944.

Supt. Puffer coöperated with the aviation cadet board before the close of Cook county high schools last fall and again in the last two months in giving the air corps mental test to high school youths 17 years old who desire to become aviation cadets. The board is headed by Capt. F. A. Wilgus, who yesterday presented the cadet emblem to young Puffer.

The aviation cadet examinations in high schools are under supervision of Stanley K. Pierce, a member of the army council. Thru coöperation of Chicago and Cook county school officials the aviation cadet board has obtained 11,000 prospective aviators for the army.

SYNOPSIS: Austin Reynolds, cattleman, is accused of ambushing Stuart Lane. Jess Blackburn tries to incite the rustlers to violence, but Neal MacGowan, who plays a lone hand, averts trouble. Reynolds accuses Neal of being the leader of the cattle thieves. The Sheridan stage has been held up. Neal follows the tracks to the gap, talks to Dunn and Blackburn, whom he suspects of the murder. When Janet Lane is shot, Eleanor and Austin move her to their home. Neal a United States marshal, searches for Blackburn. He tells Cad Clemson he suspects Blackburn of the murder of Lane and the shooting of Janet. Cad directs him to Blackburn, whom he is forced to shoot in self-defense. Eleanor's interest in Neal grows. After a raid, two rustlers appeal to Janet and Neal for aid. They lend Dagwell a horse and hide Russ Miller, who has been wounded. Dagwell is captured and hanged. Miller is located and Neal claims him as his prisoner because of the stage holdup. Austin disapproves of the engagement of Eleanor and Neal. Russ Miller breaks jail. Neal is suspected of arranging his escape. His motives are misconstrued when he sides with Dunn and goes on his bond after Dunn's forced duel with Brock. Because he fails to offer an immediate explanation, Eleanor is angry and rejects his tardy apology. They part in anger. Neal warns Austin a posse to the gap to round up the rustlers will end disastrously for the cattlemen. Austin is chosen leader. They plan to surprise the rustlers when it is dark. Impatient, Cross and Hack go ahead, arousing the rustlers. The cattlemen are forced to retreat. Hack and Morgan, their guide, are shot. They are trapped. Because Janet and Neal saved his life, Russ Miller brings them news of the trapped posse. Neal, with two helpers, goes to the rescue, after sending word to Dr. Seneca to follow with a posse. Janet notifies Eleanor, who persuades Dr. Seneca he needs to take along a nurse. Escape is cut off for the cattlemen. Reynolds does some scout work, and reports a suggestion made by Dunn to release the cattlemen if they will surrender Cross and Reynolds. Neal's men, headed by Russ Miller, arrive at Cad Clemson's ranch.

INSTALMENT XLII.

TRAPPED.

After Miller had given his name, a man stepped out, revolver in hand. He was a short, bowlegged, barrel-chested fellow with flinty eyes.

"The old man has been lookin' for you all day," he grunted, the rasp of a file in his speech.

"Great Jehosophat, Tuck, I got to do as I'm told," complained Miller. "The old man has got no call to jump me. I'll tell him so. Is he up?"

The young man passed into the house. Tuck followed him, after he had bolted the door. Cad Clemson came out of a bedroom carrying a small coal oil lamp in the left hand and a Colt's six-shooter in the right.

"What in Tophet kept you away?" he snapped, putting the lamp on a table. "And why do you have to come waking us up in the middle of the night?"

Miller flared up resentfully. "Why, I been up there with the boys pluggin' the cork into that pocket where we got the Reynolds crowd trapped."

"I didn't see you there while I was with them."

"Well, I was there, till Dunn sent me on a scout to see there wasn't any more of those birds coming along."

"Dunn didn't say anything to me about that," Clemson retorted suspiciously.

"There's quite a lot he don't tell you," Miller sneered.

"So that's it, is it?" There was anger in the lame man's sly evil face. "If he wants a showdown he'll find out who runs the Gap."

"I dunno as he does. Point is, Allan is quite a he-man. As to why I come waking you up, it's because Reynolds sent a fellow out offering to surrender if he and his men would be allowed to march away safe."

The eyes in the rat-like face of Clemson quickened with life. "Did Dunn fall for that?" he demanded.

"The boys are having a pow-wow. I didn't wait to find out what they decided, but slipped away and rode here to let you know. And all I get for it is to be bawled out."

A fourth man walked into the room—the outlaw Purdy who had been pistol-whipped by MacGowan on the day of Blackburn's death.

"What's all the shootin' about?" he wanted to know. They told him.

"Why not wait till morning?" Purdy protested.

"Because it may be too late then. We've got these lunkheads where we want 'em, and I don't mean to let them get away."

There had been moments during the past three minutes when the pit of Miller's stomach had gone icy cold.

"Better come help me saddle," he said to Tuck.

"Might as well," the bandy-legged man said. "I won't get any more sleep tonight, anyhow. The old man doesn't trust Dunn much, does he?"

The two walked to the barn, caught the horses and led them to the stable. As they saddled, a man appeared at the head of the stairs leading to the loft.

"Anything doing, boys?" he asked sleepily.

"The old man has heard Reynolds wants to throw in his hand and he aims to sit at the table when the pot is being raked in," Tuck explained.

The querulous voice of Clemson announced that he and Purdy were approaching. Cad limped out of the darkness, a step or two behind the other man.

"Those horses ready?" he asked unpleasantly.

"All ready, Miller answered.

At the sound of a crisp command the outlaws froze in their tracks. It came out of the black night unexpectedly.

"Throw up yore hands," Neal ordered harshly. "We have you covered."

He moved forward from the shadowy darkness of a stall. Owen and Driskill showed themselves at the same time. All three carried revolvers ready for action.

"Get yore hands up," Neal repeated, and watched Purdy closely. Purdy had made him trouble once before. He did not want him to start anything again.

Clemson slanted a sly anxious glance round him. Miller had betrayed them. He was sure of that. No use trying to put up a fight, not with the guns of three men trained on them. His loose lips trembled.

"Let's not go off half cocked, boys," he pleaded. "Neal means to be reasonable, I reckon. He's got nothing against us. We'll talk this over."

"Disarm them, Tim," Neal commanded. "And, you on the stairs, come down reaching for the ceiling."

"Now looky here," Clemson protested, his voice unctuous with false heartiness. "We always been friends, you and we'uns. Together we've stood against the big outfits when they were crowding the poor folks. There's no call for a play like this. Let's all sit down over a drink and fix things up. It'll be the way you want."

"We're not going to hurt any of you," Neal explained. "You're as safe as a lot of old ladies in a church—if you don't start trouble."

Owen moved forward to gather the guns. The man on the stairs came down another step and stopped. From his revolver flame darted. The knees of Tim buckled and he staggered against a grain bin. Together the forty-fives of Driskill and MacGowan blazed. Head first, the outlaw above plunged down. His huddled body lay lax at the foot of the ladder.

In the narrow lane below the guns roared. Men closed with each other, too near for pumping lead. Fists drove out into furious faces, the barrels of revolvers crashed on unprotected heads.

Neal discovered that he was struggling with Purdy. They went down and rolled over, still fighting, each trying for the moment's advantage that would clinch the victory. The outlaw clung to his revolver, trying desperately for a shot into the belly of the man he hated. Neal dropped his six-shooter, to have two free hands. One of them fastened vise-like on the hairy wrist of the bandit, his arm extended straight to keep the other's elbow from bending.

The man's gun flung a bullet into the woodwork of the stall. Another seared Neal's forehead.

Neal had been trying to knock the man out. He gave up that thought now. One of them had to die. He knew that if his enemy could get that arm free for a fraction of a second he was lost. His strong fingers closed on Purdy's windpipe. With a terrific effort the pistol arm crooked at the elbow, wavered up toward Neil's head.

Friend of the Yanks

[The Friend of the Yanks department will answer questions about the draft and military service, both in the daily columns and by mail, if stamped, self-addressed envelopes are sent with queries.]

J. R. writes: "At the present time I am a member of the midshipmen at the United States Maritime academy at Kings Point. I am 20 years old and have a deferment until I complete this instruction. If I resign, would I be allowed to take the army air cadet examination just like a person of 18 or would I have to be drafted?

ANSWER: Direct enlistment in the army air forces is not possible after a person has attained his 18th birthday, hence you would be called in the draft. But, you could request assignment to the air forces at the reception center following your induction.

N. V. I. asks: "If I surrendered my rental and subsistence allowance for my wife in favor of the allotments, would I also lose mine?"

ANSWER: When a man in one of the first three pay grades who has been drawing $1.25 a day in lieu of quarters for dependents, elects to receive benefits of the dependency act, he continues to draw $1.25 per day when not provided quarters but loses the money paid for the dependents. However, he continues to receive subsistence for himself.

D. O. D. asks: "Where are the navy chaplains' assistants trained?"

ANSWER: At the College of William and Mary, Williamsburg, Va.

B. B. T. asks: "Would a child by a common law marriage still be eligible as beneficiary of a national service life insurance policy if the parents separate? If separation occurs, could the mother keep the policy in force by paying the premium on it after the man leaves service?"

ANSWER: The child would remain eligible even tho the parents separated. If the parents separate, there should be understanding and agreement, both with respect to the continuation of the policy and the father's retaining the beneficiary of the insurance. If the father does not wish to continue premium payments, the mother could assume the obligation on behalf of the child. However, the insured is vested with the right to change the beneficiary at any time without consulting any one.

T. O'D. writes: "I am a soldier and I am stationed out where I find that other soldiers and myself are badly in need of haircuts. We feel that some of your readers would help us in getting some hair clippers, either electric or hand operated, and some barber scissors. It would be a great help to the morale of the organization."

ANSWER: If any readers wish to send these Yanks some clippers and scissors, please write to us and we will forward your letter.

NEW TRANSFERS, PINK AND GREEN, ON BUSES TODAY

Starting today, the Chicago Motor Coach company will issue pink transfers for street car connections and green transfers for elevated connections, including the subway. Previously all transfers issued by the bus company were orange.

The change was approved by the Illinois commerce commission.

The company yesterday reported an increase in the use of transfers since the system was inaugurated last Oct. 1. Then, a spokesman said, about 10,000 transfers to and from street cars were handled each day by the buses. Now upwards of 17,000 are handled each day. A 20 per cent increase was noted in the use of transfers to and from the elevated and subway lines.

YANKS IN PACIFIC 'SCOOP' WORLD, RING IN '44 FIRST

BY LLOYD NORMAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31.—The marines and other American fighting men who conquered Tarawa, Makin, and Apamama Islands in the mid-Pacific enjoyed the privilege of being the first Yanks to greet the new year.

The quirks of the calendar makers also gave the Yanks on Funafuti and other islands of the Ellice group, the Fijis and the western Tongas an early peek at the new arrival, the National Geographic society said tonight.

With American fighting men scattered in outposts all over the globe, there is more than ordinary interest in where the new year is born, the society said.

How New Year Is Born.

Before the war, the bleary eyed citizen celebrating the passing of the old year waited only for the minute hand to glide waveringly beyond the midnight mark. He cared little that, on the other side of the world, the new year had been around for 12 hours and the indiscreet celebrants were awakening with temples pounding and an ugly taste on their tongues.

For those persistent minds who would like to know why the marines on Tarawa sang "Auld Lang Syne" long before their families and friends in this country did, here is the society's authoritative explanation:

Jan. 1 is born immediately west of the international date line — the mythical north-south line which geographers and calendar experts assume is traced on the surface of the Pacific exactly half way [180 degrees] around the world from Greenwich, England. The globe is 360 degrees around and Greenwich has been agreed upon as the key spot on the zero meridian line, another imaginary line running north and south.

First and Last Close Together.

When the international date line moves past the so-called midnight line — another imaginary line exactly opposite the sun—the new day, in this case, the new year, is born.

The Yanks who will welcome the new year last are those stationed on islands immediately east of the international date line. They will be 24 hours behind their buddies on Tarawa. Among the outposts east of the line are Midway, the Phoenix Islands, Samoa and, thru an anomaly, the Aleutian Islands of Attu, Agattu, Kiska, and Amchitka.

The geographic society explained that the westernmost Aleutians are penalized 23 hours in entering the new year because the international date line is bent around them for convenience. Geographically, the society said, the islands lie somewhat west of the date line and theoretically should be among the first to greet the new year. In actual practice, the islands are included in the western Alaska time zone.

Time Around the World.

To simplify the matter for those readers who greeted the new year too zealously, here is the way all this works out:

When the first minute of the year 1944 ticked out just west of the international date line, it was one minute after noon Friday, Dec. 31, 1943, in Greenwich, England; 7:01 a. m. Friday in New York and Washington; 6:01 a. m. Friday in Chicago, and 4:01 a. m. Friday in San Francisco. In central Europe and the near east it was early Friday afternoon and in New Zealand it was just short of midnight Friday.

QUIZZED YANKS IN LONDON BACK MOVE FOR BONUS

WACs Agree; Chicago Sergeant Demurs.

BY LARRY RUE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, Dec. 31.—Only one of 20 soldiers and four WACs interviewed by the Stars and Stripes today thought that congress should reject the Barkley bill providing demobilization payments up to $500 for members of the fighting services with 18 months' service abroad.

The opponent of the bill is Sgt. Martin B. Kappes, 25 years old, former factory worker from Chicago. "Only about 20 per cent of those receiving the bonus will spend it wisely," he said. "The rest will practically throw it away on things they wouldn't even think of if they didn't have the money.

Cites Impact of Taxes.

Furthermore, while the money will look good when we get it, we'll be paying it back thru the nose in taxes. I've saved almost $800 in two years in the army and believe I can readjust myself after the war without an extra bonus."

Kappes' opinion clashed sharply with that of others interviewed, particularly Sgt. Emory Larkin, 34, of Houston, Tex., who took the view the money was certain to go back into circulation and would provide employment for workers who might otherwise be laid off when war contracts expire.

How They Would Spend Coin.

If the bill becomes law, the interviews indicated, service men intend to use the money to finance postwar plans ranging from matrimony to a down payment on a new home. Only a few, said the Stars and Stripes, planned to bank the money. Others thought they would spend it to finance matrimony, a small business, vacations, wardrobes, farms, education, or on "a grand and glorious spree."

Two of the four WACs decided to use the entire bonus to purchase clothes, a third, after deciding on a fur coat, changed her mind and thought she would put the money in the bank, while the fourth said she would take six months' vacation.

PUBLIC WORKS EXPENSES DROP 40% IN 5 YEARS

Hewitt Credits Care in Purchasing.

Oscar E. Hewitt, commissioner of public works, reported yesterday that the city's expenditures on purchases and contracts made thru his department in 1943 were 40 per cent less than in 1939, continuing a five year downward trend.

The 1943 purchases totaled $7,638,881, a decrease of $5,507,634 from the 1939 figure of $13,146,515, Hewitt said. In 1940, the purchases amounted to $12,356,838; in 1941, to $11,358,118, and 1942, $9,413,867.

"While part of this curb on city buying has been due to governmental restrictions, priorities, and allotment rules on materials," Hewitt said, "Mayor Kelly had urged department heads to buy only necessary supplies and equipment, even before the war, and this policy has been emphasized since Pearl Harbor."

Included in the 1943 report is $2,032,829 in contracts for the south side water filtration plant, a $17,000,000 project which will begin operating in July or August.

Hewitt's department controls all the city's buying except purchases made by the subway department, the city clerk, and the board of election commissioners.

Tentative appropriations for commodities to be bought in 1944 indicate a further decrease in expenditures, the commissioner said.

HOTEL BED CATCHES FIRE.

Firemen early yesterday extinguished a small blaze in a mattress in a second floor room of Hotel Arthur, 309 South Clark street. Damage was estimated at $25.

Northwestern's basketball team dealt Great Lakes its second defeat of the week in the Evanston High school gymnasium last night, 54 to 36. The Bluejackets suffered their first loss of the season against Illinois Wednesday.

After trailing, 6 to 5, in the early stages of the game, the Wildcats moved out in front by 17 to 13 midway in the first period and never were headed. They held a 24 to 19 advantage at the half and added to that lead in the second period with a scoring splurge that completely bewildered the Bluejackets.

Sailors Miss Armstrong.

Northwestern's attack was balanced evenly with four players sharing honors with 10 points each. They were Johnny Ward and Ben Schadler, sophomores, and Ronnie Schumacher and George Felt, juniors. Otto Graham, who was held to one basket in the first period, contributed two more in the Wildcats' last minute scoring barrage.

The Bluejackets, playing without the services of Paul Armstrong, their star forward who was out with a hand injury, appeared far off form. The sailors missed numerous shots and their ball handling was ragged. Chuck Joachim led the Great Lakes scorers with nine points, seven of which came in the first period as the sailors were making a battle of it.

WISCONSIN BEATS IRISH

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 31 [Special].—Wisconsin's fiery Badgers avenging an earlier defeat, made a sensational finish to vanquish Notre Dame, 47 to 45, in the second game of tonight's double header in the Milwaukee Auditorium.

Notre Dame enjoyed a 21 to 17 intermission lead after the score had been tied five times in the first half. Forward Ernie Kivisto of the Irish broke a 15 to 15 tie and John Kelly and Johnny Lujack also added baskets before the rest period.

Badgers Catch Up.

The Badgers finally caught up with the foe on Don Dick's basket midway thru the last half, giving them a 28 to 27 edge. From then on it was pell mell all the way with the lead, alternating by a point, the Badgers going to the front, 38 to 32, and the Irish returning to the fore, 42 to 41, and then a 44 to 44 tie with a minute left. Clarence Dykstra of Wisconsin and Leo Klier of Notre Dame traded free throws and then came the game winning basket by Des Smith.

Marquette Defeated.

In another exciting finish, Camp Grant remained unbeaten by trimming Marquette in the first game, 47 to 44. The holiday double header attracted a capacity crowd of 6,300.

The Warriors and the Hilltoppers alternated back and forth in the lead four times in the first 10 minutes, after which Marquette led, 13 to 12. Then Stan Szukala sank a short that put the soldiers ahead again and they pushed out to a 28 to 20 half time lead. The lineups:

Hawks Plot Surprise for Mighty Canadiens Tonight

BY EDWARD BURNS.

The Blackhawks actually are planning to give the Montreal Canadiens a whipping tonight in Chicago Stadium. If they succeed, it will be the third time the Canadiens have been whipped in National Hockey league competition this season, the first loss in five meetings with Paul Thompson's homeloving Hawks. A near capacity crowd has been indicated.

The game tonight will be the last in Chicago until the Canadiens return on Jan. 16. Since the Chicagoans haven't got what it takes to win in the hostile rinks of the league, they must beat the Canadiens tonight, or the 16th. Otherwise they will have to wait at least till the Maple Leafs come to town on Jan. 23. And the Maple Leafs were victors in two of the three losses the Hawks have suffered at home this season.

Cup Chances Endangered.

All the schedule doping, keeping in mind that the Hawks are utterly helpless away from home, indicates they must upset the Canadiens tonight or flop out of Stanley cup playoff eligibility before Feb. 1. Their dying gasp came much later last year. Then they won a road game occasionally.

Win or lose tonight, the Canadiens will continue to astound hockey experts on the basis of what they accomplished in the 1943 phase of the season. They have won 15, lost 2 and tied 3. The Hawks have won 10, lost 11 and tied none. The Canadiens have scored 96 goals and the Hawks 87, not much of a difference until the eye wanders over to the goals-against column. The Canadiens' foes have got 42 pucks past Goalie Bill Durnan. The Hawks' opponents have tallied 92 goals against Hec Highton.

Bill's Quite a Boy.

Canadien fans are so ga-ga about Durnan that they are predicting he will win more individual trophies than any player in National league history. Now he appears to have clinched the Vezina cup for goal tending supremacy. He is deemed a cinch to get the Calder cup for the outstanding rookie, and the Hart trophy as the player most valuable to his team.

Usually goalies aren't considered for the Lady Byng trophy for sportsmanship, because they never are tossed in the penalty box, but since the Lady Byng, together with the other aforesaid awards, would give Bill a sweep, his admirers are plugging for him to get it.

Even Farrell's Excited.

Joe Farrell, Hawk press agent, is among those who can't quit talking about Durnan. Here are a few items from the Farrell quill:

"Oddly enough, Durnan, who is a softball pitcher, likes baseball better than hockey. In softball competition he has pitched eight no-hit, no-run games. He works in a municipal plant in Montreal and went into pro hockey this fall with no idea of getting a permanent post with the Canadiens. But he certainly did, after tending goal 14 years as an amateur."

MAROONS END OLD YEAR WITH A VICTORY, 65-27!!

The University of Chicago basketball players started their New Year's eve celebration a bit early last night but made it one that long will be remembered when they snapped their 45 game losing streak by defeating Chicago Tech, 65 to 27.

Not since Dec. 6, 1941, when the Maroons defeated Illinois Tech, has a Chicago quintet won a game until yesterday and Coach Kyle Anderson's team had an easy time with the first year Tech outfit. Incidentally, the Maroons dropped their 45th straight decision a week ago to Illinois Tech, giving that school the unique honor of being the last team to lose to Chicago and the last to defeat it in the long losing streek.

[OTHER BOWL GAMES ON NEXT PAGE.]

Dallas, Tex., Dec. 31.—Corp. Glenn Dobbs, the greatest individual attraction in Cotton bowl history since Whizzer White and his Colorado team mates played here several New Year's days ago, was the talk of Dallas tonight as 35,000 north Texas football fans awaited tomorrow's battle between Randolph field and the University of Texas.

No one denies that Texas, Southwest conference champions, has the stronger personnel, but Dobbs' record of aerial devastation with the Ramblers in 10 games this season has so impressed the air-minded Texans that the game will be regarded as a tossup when it begins at 1:10 p. m. [CWT] tomorrow.

Baugh to Watch Dobbs.

The fact that clear, warm weather is promised was another factor which dissipated recent 2 to 1 odds against the Ramblers, and down here the fans have heard of Dobbs' pitching performance in the college All-Star game last August in Evanston when he completely overshadowed Sammy Baugh. Baugh, who arrived from his Sweetwater ranch, will be among the thousands watching Dobbs tomorrow. Another witness will be Phil Handler, coach of the Chicago Cardinals, with whom Corp. Dodds will play after the war. In fact, Baugh and Handler were together today and Baugh told Phil:

"That Dobbs is the best passer and kicker I've ever seen."

Mr. Handler, ever the diplomat, replied:

"If he's just half as good as you are, Sam, we'll be satisfied."

In one game this season, Corp. Dobbs hurled seven touchdown passes. He threw 20 scoring aerials in 10 games. In one, he completed 29 of 46 attempts. He completed 105 for 1,402 yards. He averaged 49 yards with his punts and 4.5 yards on running plays.

Old Men Ready.

Showing that democracy works in war as well as in peace one of Corp. Dobbs' targets tomorrow will be 33 year old Maj. Raymond [Butch] Morse, who once played with Oregon and later the Detroit Lions. Many of the Randolph players are slightly on the aged side, but their coach, Lt. Frank Tritico, says their ancient muscles again have become supple after the rigors of 10 games. There are 35 players on the Ramblers' squad. The field is located in San Antonio and is known as the West Point of the air.

Today they wound up their drills and Corp. Dobbs was pitching the ball all over Dallas High stadium.

Their trainer is Bib Falk, former White Sox star outfielder.

Texas Arrives in Shifts.

The Longhorns, coached by Dana X. Bible, arrived in shifts. The civilians left Austin this morning and the members who are naval trainees left at 2 p. m. this afternoon. Joe Parker, the star Texas end, left Shreveport for Dallas today. He is in the university medical school in the south Texas town. As a result of the late start to the site of the game the southwest champions did not work out today.

The Texas hopes got a big lift late this afternoon when it was learned Ralph Ellsworth, speedy half back, had been granted permission by Capt. John London, naval commandant to make the trip. Ellsworth, the Longhorns' star track man, who this season turned his talents to running with a football much in the manner of Notre Dame's Jack Elder of many years ago, has been ill with influenza.

Good-by, Old Year.

Good-by, Old Year! I shall remember you!
You brought my sailor boy back safe to me,
And kept his young heart innocent and true
Thru all the horrors of the Coral sea!
You gave him courage to face every foe,
To bear unflinchingly war's cruel rod,
You lit his eyes with faith's undying glow,
And kept him ever loyal to his God.

Good-by, Old Year! When skies again are clear
After the smoke of war has passed away,
And a new generation comes to hear
The valiant exploits of a bygone day,
Two grateful hearts will keep the old days green,
Remembering the things that might have been.

We somehow crave that each oncoming year
May differ from the last,
But well it is for us they follow still
The pattern of the past.
There will be strength anew as days go by,

Altho there may be grieving of the heart,
There will be friends to share.

Flecked moonlight will be spilled upon the snow
That shields the barren soil;
There will be gay laughter amid tears,
And slumber after toil.
We shall find duties knocking at our door,
But pride in work well done;
There will be soft splendor in the sky
Where sinks the evening sun.

New Orleans, La., Dec. 31.—The unbeaten but tied civilian football team from Tulsa and the navy men from Georgia Tech patiently are waiting out this last day of the year for tomorrow's Sugar bowl engagement in Tulane stadium. This contest, regarded as eminently worthy of the New Orleans bowl tradition, completes a decade of the competition.

The attendance—Tulane's stadium seats approximately 73,000—and the outcome of the game are questions unanswerable until tomorrow. Regardless of the attendance, the game will be a complete success for the 20,000 service men, guests of hospitable southern folks, who have contributed to the admission fund promoted by the Young Men's Business club.

The possibilities of the game have aroused more discussion than any contest in the series unless it be the Carnegie Tech-Texas Christian game, and for the same reason. There has been no focal point on which to base arguments concerning the respective merits of Tulsa and Georgia Tech.

Tulsa New Power.

Georgia Tech has been a power in the Southeastern conference for many years and is nationally known because of its intersectional battles and previous appearances in three other bowl games. Tulsa's immediate reputation has been gained under the present coach, Henry Frnka, and is sectional. The Golden Hurricane has dominated the Missouri Valley conference and stepped into the national headlines when it defeated Texas Tech in the Sun bowl two years ago.

It is no reflection on the merit of Tulsa's players to repeat that many believed the team was overmatched last year when the Midwinter Sports association named Tulsa to meet Tennessee. When the Volunteers were held to a 14 to 7 score, however, Tulsa had proved itself and this year there was no criticism when the Hurricane received a second invitation.

While this Tulsa team once more has played a sectional schedule because of war conditions, it holds a victory over the Big Six champion, Oklahoma, and top-heavy scores over rivals from the Southwest conference. Southwestern's service team managed to tie Tulsa, 6 to 6.

Mecca for 4-F's.

Tulsa has been the mecca of players disqualified for military service. Twenty-four members of the squad of 40 either have received medical discharges or have been classified 4-F in the draft.

Georgia Tech was defeated in three intersectional games, but each of these opponents won national or sectional titles. Notre Dame whipped the Yellowjackets in its march to a national title, and other conquerors of Tech, Navy, and Duke won the eastern and southern titles. In this territory, however, Georgia Tech has been supreme and its followers assert the squad now is at its best.

Tulsa and Tech will rely principally on sweeping runs and forward passes. In Clyde Leforce, Tulsa believes it has a competent successor to Glenn Dobbs, who last year set a Sugar bowl record of nine consecutive completed passes. One of these scored Tulsa's touchdown. Eddie Prokop is the bellwether for Tech and his passing and running have featured the sizable scores in the November victories.

BY ARCH WARD.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Los Angeles, Cal., Dec. 31.—The weather man for this area today came out with a New Year's resolution that was good news to the football teams representing Southern California and the University of Washington. He has promised clear skies and temperatures in the 60s for their meeting in the Rose bowl tomorrow.

Natives have been complaining about the excessive mist and dew that has saturated this area the last two weeks, but two transplanted midwesterners, A. A. Stagg of the College of the Pacific and Clarence Rowland, president of the Los Angeles Angels, today positively identified the undesirable stuff as rain. Curley Lambeau of the Packers, always a diplomat, was not so outspoken, but he ventured the statement that the liquid that is messing up the streets and sidewalks is the same that runs under bridges in Green Bay.

Crowd of 70,000 Expected.

The dampness has had a depressing effect on ticket sales, but Arnold Eddy of Southern California, game manager, predicts that if the weather forecaster knows what he is talking about, the attendance will approximate 70,000.

Both coaches, Jeff Cravath of U. S. C. and Ralph Welch of Washington, hope for a dry field, but sidelines observers think a soggy turf would be a greater handicap to the Trojans, who use the T formation with a man in motion. If there is rain tomorrow, it would not be surprising if Cravath abandons the T and goes back to the single wing, with which he had considerable success a year ago. Washington employs the Notre Dame box.

Neither Southern California nor Washington has had opportunity to establish its place among football's greats, because of the character of their 1943 schedules. Nevertheless, both teams possess individual talent that promises to match the exploits of players who have glittered in other Rose bowl games.

An Event with Tradition.

No other football enterprise has contributed so many star spangled pages to the sport's history as the Rose bowl contest. Since 1902, when Fielding H. Yost's point-a-minute team from Michigan routed Stanford, 49 to 0, the game has been marked by brilliant performances. It was immortal Willie Heston and Neil Snow who led the Wolverines to victory in the inaugural Rose bowl attraction.

Close your eyes while the heroes of other years parade down memory lane — Harvard's Eddie Casey, Brown's Fritz Pollard, Washington State's Dick Hanley, Great Lakes' Paddy Driscoll, California's Brick Muller, Notre Dame's Elmer Layden, Stanford's Ernie Nevers, Alabama's Johnny Mack Brown and Dixie Howell, Southern California's Cotton Warburton, Russ Saunders, Ambrose Schindler, and Ernie Pinckert, Stanford's Bob Reynolds, Keith Topping, Frank Albert, and Hugh Gallarneau, Oregon State's Don Durdan, and Georgia's Charles Trippi.

That's the background against which Southern California's Norm Verry, Bill Gray, Ainslie Bell, and Eddie Saenz, and Washington's Sam Robinson, Al Akins, and Gerry Austin will be operating tomorrow.

Washington Favored to Win.

Washington is the popular favorite to win, but there are two important psychological advantages that belong to Southern California. One is that they are the underdogs. The other is the fact that the Trojans never have been beaten in the

EAST, WEST VIE TODAY IN ANNUAL CHARITY CLASH

Pacific Eleven Favorite, Expect 58,000.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 31 (AP).—Football players of the east and west, ranging from college freshmen to men in the services, will clash here tomorrow in the 19th annual all-star charity game. The western team, manned by older and more experienced players, is the favorite.

Barring unfavorable weather, a capacity crowd of close to 58,000 is expected. Officials of the Shriners organization, which sponsors the contest for its crippled children's hospital, said today nearly all the tickets were sold.

East Has Speed.

The eastern squad, coached by Andy Kerr of Colgate and George Hauser of Minnesota, will center its attack around a combination of fast backs working off varied formations. Bob Hoernschemeyer, 18 year old freshman star from the University of Indiana, figures strongly in the eastern offense as left half back. He's an outstanding pass thrower and some of his tosses will be aimed at his college team mate, Pete Pihos, as well as at Rudy Smeja of Michigan, two of the best ends in the country.

L. S. U. VS. AGGIES

Miami, Fla., Dec. 31 (AP).—The Texas Aggies will face Louisiana State here tomorrow in the 10th edition of Miami's Orange bowl game without the services of Marion Flanagan, ace back and signal caller. Flanagan was ruled out definitely today when his twice injured knee failed to respond to treatment.

The loss of Flanagan makes the outcome of the game a tossup, according to most observers.

Slender Red Burditt, 157 pound substitute, will start at Flanagan's left half post and Coach Homer Norton is wondering if the lad can stand the pace for a full afternoon.

Steve Van Buren, one of the south's finest backs, will carry the offensive hopes of Louisiana State. Probable lineups:

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

Clyde McCullough, last season's first string Cub catcher, while he was available, passed his induction physical examination in Chicago yesterday and, by choice, was assigned to duty in the U. S. navy. The broken ankle which he suffered in the first game of 1943 was thoroly examined and pronounced by physicians to be fit for service. He is shown (left) with Seaman 2d Class Don Schaeffer.

SKATING MARKS MAY FALL TODAY IN CITY TOURNEY

Herb Knudten, president of the Illinois Skating association, said yesterday that all preparations had been completed for holding the city championship meet in Garfield park this afternoon, starting at 1:30 p. m., under the auspices of the Northwest Skating club. Knudten said the skaters will race on a six lap track, which will be scraped to insure a fast surface.

With a record entry for every race, some new records may be placed on the book. Chris Hackenbach, coach of the Northwest club, expects his skaters to garner enough points in the 20 races to give his team high honors, but Vic Ronchetti, who handles the C. Y. O. aggregation thinks different.

Strong Intermediate Class.

Hackenbach will depend on George Fischer to take the intermediate title, George having pulled a double upset last Sunday when he defeated Buddy Solem of the C. Y. O. in the 440 yard and three-quarter mile races. The intermediates should be the top class this year with most of the seniors in service.

Elaine Bogda Gordon, who won the North American title in the women's class in 1941 is likely to pile up a few points for the Northwest club as she defeated the Wisconsin title holder, Bernice Melewski in the half mile race last Sunday in Garfield park. Her main competition may come from Peggy Barbra, George F. Barrett Athletic club star and Bessie Laga Douglas of the same club.

The skaters will be back in action tomorrow to take part in the Peirce playground Derby with events in every class in addition to several races for beginners who have been attending the coaching schools sponsored by the Chicago Sports association.

Then Come Silver Skates.

The two meets today and tomorrow will help the skaters get ready for the annual Tribune Silver Skates Derbies Jan. 15 and 16. Entries for the Silver Skates must be sent to Wilfrid Smith of the Tribune sports department by Jan. 10. An entry blank is printed on this page.

JOHN COGHILL, GOLF COURSE OPERATOR, DIES

John W. Coghill, one of the operators of the Cog-Hill Golf and Country club in the Palos Hills district near Lemont, died at his winter home in Miami, Fla., yesterday morning. Death occurred as a result of complications following a severe cold.

Survivors are the widow, Helen, and three young children. A sister, Mrs. Julius Oehl of San Bernardino, Cal., and three brothers, L. E. of Van Horn, Ia., and Martin and Burt Coghill of Chicago.

The body will arrive in Chicago tomorrow afternoon and will be in the chapel at 95th street and Hamilton avenue. Funeral services will be held at 2:30 o'clock Tuesday afternoon. Interment will be in Fairmount cemetery.

One Cub on Deck

Clyde McCullough, who was relegated to second place among the Cub catchers after Tom Livingston arrived from the Phillies about the middle of last season, was sworn into the navy yesterday after examining doctors pronounced him completely recovered from the effects of an ankle fracture in the opening game last April.

The athlete was examined in September but was granted a 90 day deferment because of the injury. Following a leave McCullough will report for training.

Lou Gordon, former tackle with the Chicago Cardinals and Green Bay Packers, who took the induction examination along with McCullough, was rejected because of an old knee injury.

Three catchers now remain on the Cub roster, Livingston being the No. 1 man of the trio. The others are Albert Kreitner, who was honorably discharged from the army, and William Holm, a Chicagoan, who was with the Los Angeles club last season.

Washington has more speed in its back field, but has been none too strong on pass defense. It has been scored upon four times in four games on aerials. The Trojans have a sharpshooting southpaw passer named Bell who figures to give the Huskies something to worry about. Washington has the stronger ends, but, from tackle to tackle, U. S. C. has a line that will at least hold its own.

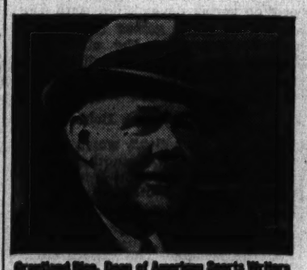
GRANTLAND RICE PREVIEWS THE BOWL GAMES

Broadcast For Your Enjoyment By The Gillette Safety Razor Company



Grantland Rice, Dean of American Sports Writers

There will be at least three major Bowl contests on New Year's Day that with the East-West All-Star renewal should provide variety and action.

Two fine young civilian teams meet in the Orange Bowl at Miami.

In the Sugar Bowl contest at New Orleans a strong Navy-Trainee team from Georgia Tech meets Tulsa's famous Four-F's, one of the strongest combination teams of the season.

At Dallas in the Cotton Bowl, another strong Navy-Trainee squad from Texas University faces one of the strongest of the Service teams from Randolph Field headed by Glenn Dobbs the eminent triple threater.

The East West test at San Francisco will round out a thrilling football picture, with Navy entries, young civilians and Service headliners set and ready on four active fields.

The Orange Bowl game at Miami will bring about the meeting of two fast, hustling civilian teams in the battle of youth.

Texas A & M, meeting Louisiana State, will field the youngest squad that ever played in any Bowl game.

Homer Norton's Texas Aggies will also carry to the Orange Bowl one of the best five-year averages in football with 39 won, 9 lost and 2 tied.

Their leading entries include Marion Flanagan, Jim Hallmark, Stan Turner, the able Stettegast and Goble Bryant.

L.S.U. challenges with Steve Van Buren, one of the best backs of the year.

This will largely be a game of speed and spirit. Earlier in the year Texas A & M beat L.S.U. by two touchdowns and figures to repeat by

BIG ALUMINUM MILLS ORDERED TO CUT OUTPUT

WPB Studies Slash in More Plants.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31 (AP).—The war production board tonight ordered the closure of four aluminum production lines in two federally owned plants in the apparent beginning of a sweeping cut-back in aluminum output.

The Aluminum Corporation of America, it was learned simultaneously, already had begun curtailments which may slash as much as 40 per cent from the production of Alcoa properties, which produce almost half the country's supply.

The actions were taken because of a surplus of the metal. Rep. Fred Norman [R., Wash.] cited WPB figures indicating that production was outstripping consumption by 625 million pounds a month.

May Curtail 11 More.

Arthur H. Bunker, WPB vice chairman for metals and minerals, said last night WPB might order the shutdown of as many as 15 production lines in the next few days. The orders issued tonight, affecting lines in Burlington, N. J., and Maspeth, N. Y., will cut production by 12 million pounds a month.

Alcoa has voluntarily taken one line out of production at its plant in Alcoa, Tenn., and a company spokesman said more lines would be closed there. Curtailments also have been made by Alcoa in plants at Baden, N. C., and Massena, N. Y. [Rep. Walt Horan [R., Wash.] said Bunker had told him that government owned plants at Massena would be closed down Jan. 30.]

Cut Preliminary Phase.

In addition, Alcoa has slashed production of alumina—a preliminary stage in aluminum production—at two plants. A 50 per cent curtailment was effected at Baton Rouge, La., and a 10 per cent cut at East St. Louis, Ill.

The WPB action, effective at midnight, directed the closure of two out of three lines in the Burlington plant and two out of eight lines in the so-called Queens plant at Maspeth. Both are Alcoa-operated, but owned by the defense plant corporation.

"In view of the ample production of aluminum ingots at this time," WPB's announcement said, "the output of these four lines can be dispensed with. The New York and New Jersey plants were chosen because their power supply is generated by coal, and because the alumina which they reduce to aluminum has to be hauled from the Mississippi valley."

Coal Shortage Heeded.

Bunker said that any further shutdowns also would take into consideration the coal shortage. It was estimated that each pound of aluminum produced requires the consumption of 15 pounds of coal.

Cutbacks in aluminum production have been predicted for several months because, it was said, aircraft production in 1943 did not keep pace with the tremendously expanded output of the light metal.

Rep. Horan said last night he had received a letter from Harold Ickes, secretary of the interior, in which Ickes wrote he was "not impressed by statements that we have too large a surplus of aluminum." Horan said Ickes suggested that industry should be converted to part-time civilian production as soon as possible before any drastic curtailment of aluminum output was ordered.

Cite Threat to West.

Four Washington state representatives, in a statement, criticized WPB and Jesse Jones of the Defense Plant corporation for planning to close down American plants while, they said, about 600 million pounds a year were purchased from the Shipshaw project of the Canadian Aluminum company in Canada.

The statement issued by Rep. John Coffee [D., Wash.] was concurred in by Representatives Warren G. Magnuson [D., Wash.], Horan, and Norman.

It said the northwest is threatened with the closing down of some of its aluminum plants and that they protested the closing of any plants using hydro-electric power.

Coffee said it was his understanding there is an aluminum surplus of about 700 million pounds, or one-third of the national requirements, and that it is the policy of WPB to import about that amount "from the plants built with United States money in Canada rather than to keep plants operating on this side of the border."

Share Buyers May Recoup, Court Decides

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 31 (AP).—The Minnesota Supreme court today held that purchasers of unregistered stock sold in Minnesota during 1928, 1929, and 1930 by two New York corporations can recover the purchase price.

In a decision against the Amerex Holding company, the court ruled that Frank A. Donaldson and Frank A. Donaldson Jr., as executors of the estate of Mrs. Ruth Chase Donaldson, deceased, can recover $2,777. The decision upheld Hennepin county District Judge W. W. Bardwell.

Also affected by today's decision is the National City company, now known as City Company of New York, Inc.

The opinion, written by Chief Justice Henry M. Gallagher, held that "it is quite obvious that at the time the securities were sold they were required by our law to be registered."

Joined with Other Stock.

"The fact that a share of bank stock immune from the registration was inseparably joined with stock which was not immune from registration for sale and transfer purposes would not immunize the corporate stock to be registered," the opinion said. "No authority or logic is necessary to sustain that holding."

Supreme court records show that the Amerex Holding company was organized under the laws of New York on March 21, 1917, and from that time until July 1, 1930, engaged in the securities business in Minnesota and other states distributing corporation stocks and bonds, including its own stock and that of the Chase National Bank of New York. The name of the company was changed on May 17, 1933, to the Chase corporation, and on June 15, 1934, it was changed again to the Amerex Holding corporation.

"Illegal Plan" Charged.

The complaint charged an "illegal plan whereby capital stock of the Chase Securities corporation was paid for by the Chase National bank" and that shares of the Chase Securities corporation "issued directly to the stockholders of the bank, with each stockholder becoming a shareholder of record in Chase Securities corporation, in direct proportion to his stock holdings in the bank."

Thomas O. Streissguth, New Ulm, Minn., and George B. Leonard, representing a majority of claimants, said more than 100 claims representing between $500,000 and $750,000 pending in court hinge on the decision.

Today's decision resulted from enactment in 1941 by the Minnesota legislature of a law permitting institution of proceedings in the so-called "bank cases" where the firms had removed themselves from the state, despite the fact that the statute of limitations had operated to outlaw such suits.

MUSIC COLLEGE BUYS VAN BUREN STREET BUILDING

The Chicago Musical college yesterday purchased the 12 story building at 64 East Van Buren street, which it has occupied since 1924, from the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance company for $110,000. Thomas H. Fisher, attorney for the buyer, said $85,000 cash was paid and a $25,000 purchase money mortgage assumed.

Northwestern Mutual was awarded title to the property in 1933 to satisfy a $450,000 mortgage in lieu of foreclosure. Since then a total of about $50,000 was spent in modernizing the building.

Answer: The company, founded in 1855, is one of the largest wholesale distributors of hardware. In addition the company handles plumbing, heating and electrical supplies, household furnishings, sporting goods, ammunition, paint, agricultural supplies, mill machinery, and machinists' and contractors' supplies. Several retail hardware stores are operated, and the company provides merchandising services to customer stores.

Late in 1942 the army took over the company's big main warehouse in Chicago. The company has leased or purchased other warehouse and showroom facilities.

Altho a large proportion of the items normally carried were no longer manufactured in 1942, a record inventory and increased industrial supply business enabled the company to show net sales of $18,401,846 for the fiscal year ended Jan. 31, 1943, against $18,835,990 for the preceding 13 months.

Net income for the year ended Jan. 31, 1943, was $713,818, equal to $3.63 a share, compared with $736,793, or $3.68 a share, for the 13 months to Jan. 31, 1942. Except for 1932 the company has reported a net profit each year for a long period.

Capitalization consists solely of 196,601 shares of $25 par value stock. Dividends have been paid without interruption for more than 20 years. Payments in the 1943 calendar year totaled $2.50 a share, against $1.80 in 1942, and $3 a share in 1939, 1940, and 1941.

Current assets as of Jan. 31, 1943, totaled $6,879,295, including cash of $782,926 and United States treasury notes of $1,210,000, against current liabilities of $600,510.

STOCK MARKET LEAVES 1943 ON HIGHER TREND

Upturn Restrained by Profit Sales.

New York, Dec. 31 (AP).—Stock market prices were mostly higher today in the year's final session. The list encountered profit taking on yesterday's rally and, after a fast and generally higher opening, there were some setbacks.

The approach of the holiday—major exchanges will recess tomorrow—inspired lightening of accounts here and there and a revival of doubts regarding settlement of the railway wage dispute dimmed sentiment to a large extent. Reinvestment demand, however, again was a bolstering factor.

The Associated Press 60 stock average, off 0.1 at 49.6, was unchanged on the week, but for the entire year showed a net gain of 8 points.

Omnibus Sets New Peak.

Omnibus corporation gained a point to a new 1943 peak. Modest improvement was retained by American Telephone, Woolworth, Oliver Farm, Sperry, American Can, Schenley, Anaconda, and Chesapeake and Ohio. American Distilling "plain" and "stamped" advanced at the start, but backed away eventually. The former ended ½ lower and the latter ¼ higher.

The price of exchange memberships neared the 1943 high as the year ended, one selling at $45,000 and another selling a few minutes later at $47,000, compared with the peak of $48,000 set last April 16.

Stocks started the week with a decline which continued thru Wednesday as labor difficulties chilled speculative and investment ideas. Buyers returned Thursday on the thought they could miss the boat in a year-end rally, and the market enjoyed its largest upswing since early last August on volume of more than a million shares.

RAIL BONDS RISE.

New York, Dec. 31 (AP).—Rail bonds finished 1943 at the highest level of the year as measured by the Associated Press average of 20 carriers, and trends in other departments were steady.

On moderate dealings various carrier loans showed final advances ranging from fractions to more than a point. Gainers included most bonds of the St. Paul, International Great Northern, Lehigh Valley, and Northern Pacific, among others.

United States government issues were steady and foreign loans irregular. Transactions totaled $9,599,700, face value, against $12,463,100 yesterday.

CHICAGO LIST GAINS.

Price changes were mainly upward in yesterday's session of the Chicago Stock exchange. Middle West corporation, after edging to a new high for 1943, closed unchanged. Other new highs were registered by Omnibus corporation, Studebaker, and Goldblatt Brothers. Electric Household Utilities and Peabody Coal were up slightly in active trading.

CHICAGO'S BANK CLEARINGS RISE 11 PCT. IN YEAR

Chicago bank clearings during 1943 totaled $23,622,041,321, largest since 1929, and comparing with $21,194,089,803 in 1942, an increase of 11.4 per cent, the Chicago Clearing House association reported yesterday. Clearings during December amounted to $2,217,580,730, also a 14 year peak, against $1,965,728,890 a year ago. This week they aggregated $475,600,000, compared with $426,900,000 in the preceding week. The figures:

Murray Tells Steel Men to Stay on Jobs

Pittsburgh, Pa., Dec. 31 (AP).—Philip Murray, president of the CIO and the United Steel Workers' union, today counseled members of his union to remain at work while the leaders of the union negotiate new contracts with the steel companies.

Collective bargaining contracts of 150 companies, including subsidiaries of the nation's largest producer, United States Steel corporation, expire Monday. In proposing new contracts, the union has asked a 17 cent hourly wage increase, a guaranteed minimum wage, and other benefits.

Retroactive Pay Guaranteed.

The expiration of contracts of 214 companies on Christmas eve precipitated work stoppages which spread to 170,000 employes in nine states. The walkouts ended Dec. 28 after the war labor board issued a directive guaranteeing pay retroactivity in newly negotiated contracts.

In telegrams sent to district directors and local union leaders thruout the country, Murray reiterated instructions to the men of the mills to stay on the job while negotiations continue.

"Our country faces its gravest challenge in approaching the all-important invasion of Europe," said Murray. "The United Steel Workers of America does not intend to fail its nation."

About a half million steel workers will be without contracts Monday, when the present ones expire. Included are 200,000 United States Steel employes.

Hints Snag in Talks.

Murray hinted in his telegram that negotiations conducted the past week with United States Steel representatives had struck a snag when he said:

"The representatives of your union insist that the [contract] extension agreements should contain only the directive of the national war labor board. However, the employers have insisted upon the incorporation of extraneous matter which, if accepted by the union, would only lead to confusion and misunderstanding."

This was the first indication from any of the conferees of the nature of the contract discussions, which recessed today until next Tuesday. Any agreement reached by the union and "Big Steel" would be generally regarded as a model for the industry.

LIFE INSURANCE POLICIES' VALUE RISES 8 BILLION

New York, Dec. 31 (AP).—Value of life insurance policies in the United States increased 8 billion 700 million dollars during 1943, the Institute of Life Insurance reported today.

The institute said life insurance holdings have increased more than 14 billions since the war began, and that now 68 million policy holders own an aggregate of 139 billions of life insurance.

Investments of life insurance funds in war industries total 37 billion 675 million dollars, an increase of 5 billions since Pearl Harbor, the institute reported. Purchase of government securities by life insurance companies reached a new high of 12 billion 600 million dollars, an average of $380 for each family.

Benefit payments aggregated 2 billion 400 million dollars, representing an increase of nearly 100 millions in death claims paid to beneficiaries over 1942, the institute said.

Ford Tank Plant Lays Off Many; Orders Curtailed

Several hundred of the 1,700 employes at the Ford plant, 126th street and Torrence avenue, engaged in the production of armored tanks, were laid off last night as the result of a scheduled decrease in production at the plant, E. M. Buell, general manager, said.

BETHLEHEM BUILDS 380 VESSELS TO TOP ITS SHIP A DAY GOAL

New York, Dec. 31 [Special].—The Bethlehem Steel corporation more than lived up to its pledge of a ship a day for 1943, by producing 380 large sized vessels of all types, Eugene G. Grace, president, announced today.

Eugene G. Grace.

"Never before in the world's history has any company carried out a shipbuilding program of such magnitude and diversity," he said.

His report was broadcast thruout the country, but his words were addressed particularly to the miners, furnacemen, cranemen, shipfitters, and others of the army of 300,000 skilled and unskilled workmen, and the managers, engineers, and supervisors, who made the record possible. The 380 ships are virtually all types of vessels required by the navy and by the merchant marine. The company's program calls for 70 per cent navy vessels and 30 per cent cargo vessels.

SWIFT MAKES REPORT ON PAY OF EXECUTIVES

Remuneration by Swift & Co., to its officers and directors during the fiscal year ended Oct. 30 is listed before and after deduction of estimated income taxes in the company's proxy statement mailed to stockholders with the notice of the annual meeting to be held Jan. 20.

Amounts shown for officers are as follows: John Holmes, president, salary $85,000 and net amount after taxes $30,047; G. F. Swift, vice chairman, who died Oct. 28, $60,000 and $25,539; William B. Traynor, vice president and treasurer, $60,000 and $25,539; Albert F. Hunt, vice president, $50,000 and $23,190; O. E. Jones, vice president, $50,000 and $23,190; Charles H. Swift, chairman, $40,000 and $20,287; George H. Swift, New England representative, $38,818 and $19,921; N. R. Clark, vice president, $37,500 and $19,486, and Harold H. Swift, vice chairman, $35,000 and $18,660.

Regarding the management's recommendation that the stockholders authorize an increase in annual contributions to the company's pension trust, not to exceed 5 per cent of the pay roll, the statement says lower interest rates have resulted in a decline in income from securities in the trust. In the 1943 fiscal year the contribution was $4,544,617, equal to approximately 3 per cent of the pay roll.

TRUCKING FIRM TO OPERATE IN SAME LOCATION

The Denver-Chicago Trucking company will continue to use a substantial part of its facilities at 3030 South Ashland avenue, in which a substation will be opened Monday for consolidating army-navy freight arriving in loads of 6,000 pounds or less, it was said yesterday.

Harry F. Chaddick, president of the American Transportation company, which will operate the substation, said that freight from all parts of the middle west will be handled there.

He estimated the number of trucks using the army-navy consolidating station on Pershing road would be reduced 40 per cent thru the Ashland avenue operation.

WHEAT FUTURE PRICES BOUND ON MILL BUYING

All Grains Higher; Trade Active.

Wheat futures prices bounded more than 3 cents a bushel at one time yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. Profit taking followed and best prices were not maintained. All deliveries of wheat and rye set new seasonal high marks.

Prices of wheat closed 1⅝ to 2¼ cents higher and rye was up ⅝ to 1¼ cents. Oats gained ⅛ to ½ cent and barley was up ⅝ to 1 cent. May barley sold at $1.23 early, or ½ cent above the ceiling price on feed barley.

Buying attributed to mills lifted May wheat to $1.70½ early or 2½ cents above the Dec. 15 parity. An advance of 1 cent in the latter, announced late Thursday, and an upturn of 5½ to 6 cents in the subsidy to mills on January flour business stimulated buying of deferred deliveries. The government is scheduled to open bids on 600,000 barrels of flour for army and lend-lease early next week.

Await Word on Ceiling.

The office of price administration is expected to announce ceiling prices on cash wheat Jan. 5, and there is much speculation in the grain trade as to the maximum likely to be placed on that cereal. Trade guesses range from $1.67, or full parity price Nov. 15 up to $1.72 a bushel, Chicago basis. No. 2 hard winter at the close yesterday was quoted at $1.75¼, a new 15 year peak.

Commission houses were aggressive early buyers of rye but late in the session heavy selling attributed to profit taking by a professional trader caused a reaction of about 1½ cents from the top. Wheat was the main influence in the advance, altho an upturn of 1 cent in the national parity price between Nov. 15 and Dec. 15 was also a factor, brokers said.

Corn Moves In Quantity.

Country offerings of cash corn for deferred shipments were the heaviest in over a month. Purchases of 300,000 bushels were reported, but brokers were inclined to be more conservative in their opinions as to the extent of the movement in January. Farmers, it was said, may hold back grain until later in the winter in order to permit the corn to dry out further. Weather conditions recently have been favorable for drying, and a few cars have graded No. 3 in consequence.

The advance in oats and barley was largely in sympathy with other grains, brokers said.

SPURT IN CREDIT BUYING SWELLS CONSUMER DEBT

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31 (AP).—A larger than usual seasonal rise in charge account buying during November increased the amount of consumer credit outstanding at the month's end 111 million dollars above the October figure to a total of 5 billion 70 million dollars.

The Federal Reserve board, reporting this today, said that instalment sales for durable goods other than automobiles were up 6 million dollars during the month due to heavy early Christmas buying at department and jewelry stores. It was the first gain for that type of credit for any month except December since late 1941.

Charge account indebtedness increased 100 millions, or 7 per cent, during the month, whereas it usually remains near the October level, the board said.

Smooth Rail Operation Cuts Need of Army Men

Col. Ralph Budd, director of the central western region of railways, announced yesterday that because of normal operation of the railroads, war department representatives assigned to 88 roads—mostly smaller ones in the area—have been authorized to give up their posts provided their services are no longer required. In the case of the larger roads having a number of officers assigned to them, all except one are permitted to relinquish their posts.

Bard Assails Patterson on Repricing Act

F. N. Bard, chairman of the Illinois Manufacturers' association committee on the renegotiation of war contracts, yesterday challenged a statement by Robert P. Patterson, undersecretary of war, on renegotiation as "misleading to the public and distinctly unfair to American industry."

Quoting a statement "attributed to you in a press release," Bard wrote Patterson:

"This statement gives the impression to the public that without the presence on the statute books of the government contract renegotiation act, excessive profits resulting from war contracts would not be recouped by the government. Your statement insofar as it does give that impression to the American public is misleading to the public and distinctly unfair to American industry.

Would Be Paid in Taxes.

"As a matter of fact, most of the industries which have made refunds under the government contract renegotiation act are in the higher brackets for income tax purposes and even tho the government contract renegotiation act was not on the statute books those industries would, under our federal tax laws, pay 80 per cent of their profits into the United States treasury.

"Moreover, industry generally follows the practice of reducing prices when price reductions are justified and, therefore, a substantial portion of the remaining 20 per cent would have been returned to the government thru voluntary price reductions."

Bard said in his letter that the act has in actual operation proved to be a real deterrent to the war production program. Management of war production industries is kept in a constant state of uncertainty, he charged.

Termed the "Proper Way."

"The I. M. A. has frequently represented to congress that the only proper way to recover so-called 'excessive' profits is thru our federal revenue laws," Bard said.

"If our federal tax laws are not now adequate to insure the recovery of excess profits, they should be amended. The energies and the time of our war production agencies should be devoted exclusively to the war effort. These agencies should not be used as tax collectors. This responsibility should be lodged exclusively in the federal revenue department."

10 MILLIONS GO HOURLY TO U.S. WAR EXPENSES

Washington, D. C., Dec. 31 (AP).—More than 10 million dollars poured out of the treasury every hour during 1943 to meet the staggering costs of global war.

Altho final figures will not be available until next week, indications today were that 1943 governmental spending will approach 88 billion dollars—more than 82 billions of which will have been for war purposes alone. Thus of the 241 millions spent every day of the year, more than 225 millions went to put Hitler and Tojo on the defensive.

Income, altho the highest in history, failed by 53½ billion dollars to equal outgo. The 34½ billions in 1943 receipts were more than double the 16 billion 400 millions collected in 1942, when total expenditures amounted to 56 billion 20 millions, nearly 50 billions for the war.

The national debt climbed from 112 billion 471 million dollars at the end of last year to nearly 170 billions.

DETROIT FIRM'S SALES BANNED FOR VIOLATIONS

A one week suspension of selling activities of the Consumers Home Equipment company has been ordered by the board of governors of the federal reserve system for violation of the board's regulation governing credit sales.

The company, with headquarters in Detroit, sells merchandise on an instalment basis thru house to house salesmen. Violations charged by the reserve board included manipulation of prices and records in order to avoid down payment requirements, and lack of diligence in otherwise applying the down payment, minimum repayment, and maximum maturity requirements of the regulation.

The company admitted negligent violations but denied they were willful.

MARKET HOLIDAY

Banks and securities and commodities markets thruout the United States and Canada will be closed today in observance of the New Year holiday.

PUBLIC TO GET 67 PCT. OF 1944 MEAT OUTPUT

Per Capita Supply Is Unchanged.

Civilian consumers in the United States have been allocated 67 per cent of the country's total 1944 meat supplies, the war food administration announced yesterday. Chicago WFA officials said allocation is about the same as in 1943 and is equivalent to 132 pounds per capita for the year on a dressed meat basis compared with a pre-war, 1935-'39 average of 126 pounds. Final consumption figures for 1943 are expected to be available in January.

Allocation to all categories for 1944 is about 24½ billion pounds and an additional 1 billion pounds have been earmarked for contingency reserve, WFA officials said.

Army Gets Mostly Beef.

United States military and affiliated services will get about 17 per cent of the total supplies on the basis of present tentative allocations. Of this amount, 54 per cent will be beef, 4 per cent veal, 4 per cent lamb and mutton, and 36 per cent pork.

Twelve per cent of the total has been allocated under the heading, "Our allies, other friendly nations, Red Cross, and United States territories." Of this, Great Britain gets 6 per cent; Russia, 4 per cent; other allies and liberated areas, 1 per cent, and United States territories, one-half of 1 per cent. Most meat for allies will be pork, officials said.

Reserve Not Allocated.

"Because supplies and needs shift rapidly in war time," the WFA announcement said, "1 billion pounds have been established as a contingency reserve, or about four pounds out of each 100 pounds of total allocations. This may also serve as a margin allowing for adjustment between estimated and actual production. This reserve is not set aside for any group, but may be used where it best serves emergency needs."

Chicago WFA officials estimated that 1944 meat production would reach 25.6 billion pounds, which would just cover the 24¾ billion allocations and the billion pound reserve. Final totals on meat production in 1943 were said to be inconclusive, yet "since estimates for nonfederally inspected production has not yet been completed for the year."

ALL LIVE STOCK EXCEPT CATTLE BELOW YEAR AGO

Prices of all meat animals except cattle yesterday closed lower than at the end of 1942 in the Chicago market. Gains ranging up to 50 cents a hundred pounds in top grades of steers were offset by severe price declines in other meat animals compared with a year earlier.

The scant supply of cattle in the pens yesterday cleared quickly at prices about in line with the preceding session.

Chicago Welcomes in 1944 with a Joyful Noise—Loop Streets and Clubs Crowded with Merrymakers
